VIRGINIA'S JUBILEE.

THOUSANDS OF FREEMEN IN PROCESSION.

A Grand Outpouring of the Children of the Old Dominion Who Rejoice That They are Free from the Leprosy of Mahoneism—A Four Mile Procession of Enthusiasm.

RICHMOND, November 13.—Never before has such a jubilation been witnessed in Richmond as that of to-night, the occasion being the demonstration of the democracy in honor of the victory of the party in the state. The preparations for the event had been progressing for several days, and its culmination was most successful. The affair consisted of a torch light procession composed of all the democratic organization of the city, besides numerous clubs from the surrounding country, and other parts of the state. There were nearly 1,000 mounted and uniformed men in line, besides several thousand on foot, with torches and transparencies, the latter bearing all kinds of inscriptions. Fireworks of every description was the order of to-night, and the whole line of march, about four miles, was a scene of great brilliancy. The illumination of the buildings was general, and the enthusiasm of the people was at the highest pitch. The special feature of the procession was the democratic club of ninety colored men from Charlotte county, a few miles from Danville. Their reception by the people amounted to an ovation. Three brass bands, including that from the soldiers home at Hampton, furnished music. All the streets along which the procession passed were crowded with citizens from the highest to the lowest, although there was a noticable absence of crowds of colored people usually seen at other demonstrations. When the procession had completed its route, the jubilee was concluded by speech making by a number of prominent democrats, including Hon. John S. Barbour, Congressman Mills, of Texas, L. H. Staples, of North Carolina, James Barron Hope, of Norfolk, Congressman Cabell and John W. Daniel, of Virginia.

JOHN KELLY'S RETIREMENT.

The Boss of Tammany Hall Said to be Weary for Quiet.

NEW YORK, November 13.—During the past two or three days it has been whispered about among the leading members of Tammany hall organization that Mr. John Kelly proposed to retire from politics and that his mantle would fall upon Edward Kearney, one of the shrewdest and most popular of democrats in this city. Various reasons have been assigned for the move which it is said Mr. Kelly is about to make. For the purpose of ascertaining whether the report was entitled to credence a reporter yesterday called upon one of the big chief's closest friends—a gentleman of influence. The gentleman in question said:

"Yes; Mr. Kelly does contemplate withdrawal from politics, but I do not desire, however, to have my name mentioned in connection with the statement. Mr. Kelly is tired of political strife. He wants rest. For sometime past he has had in his mind's eye a trip to Italy. You are doubtless aware of the fact that Mr. Kelly is a devout churchman. Sometime within the next two or three months there is to be an ecclesiastical council in Rome, which will be attended by bishops from all parts of the world. Mr. Kelly desires to be in Rome when that assemblage convenes. Besides, he is a gentleman who has cultivated a taste for fine arts, and he wants to gratify his curiosity by visiting art galleries and places of historic interest in Italy. Ever since Tilden's defeat he has been made the subject of constant and malignant misrepresentation. In the recent fight he carried his register through successfully, and demonstrated that his power as a leader was unshaken. He feels now that he can retire with honor and secure the rest which he needs. Why should he continue to battle? He is a man of wealth, has been honored by his party, and does not aspire to any political position, and he is not the man physically that he was a few years ago."

"Who will succeed Mr. Kelly in the event of his retirement?"

"Mr. Edward Kearney, an old New Yorker, a gentleman of great executive ability, widespread popularity, wealth and high standing in his party. Mr. Kearney's accession to the leadership would go a long way toward wiping out the animosity which democrats throughout the state and in this city entertain for Tammany hall. Although Mr. Kearney has never wavered in his devotion to Tammany, has given his time and money freely to advance the organization's interest, still he is looked upon as a gentleman of liberal views, and would be just the man to unite all the warring democratic factions. He is quite as popular in the organization as Mr. Kelly. Besides being liberal in his views he is even tempered, always pleasant in his intercourse with men, and a man who mingles with the members of the organization. He is democratic in every sense of the word, and possesses certain qualifications which fit him for leadership that even Mr. Kelly does not possess. To sum up the situation in a sentence Mr. Kelly desires that Ed Kearney shall succeed him as leader."

On his way down town the reporter met Mr. Ed Cahill, one of Mr. Kelly's lieutenants, and mentioned the latest report concerning Mr. Kelly.

"I don't believe that Mr. Kelly is going to retire from politics," said Mr. Cahill. "In my opinion he will stick."

BUTLER'S REVIEW.

The Prolific Children of Democratic Mothers Coming to His Rescue Next Year.

BOSTON, November 13.—The Globe prints an interview with Governor Butler on the state campaign. He speaks of the interview in which he said "the large increase of vote was obtained by corruption and fraud on the part of my opponents," and adds that "thereupon the New York Tribune printed that telegram as far as the word 'fraud' and put in a period there, and then said that I had confessed that my vote was obtained by corruption and fraud. An editor who would do that would steal a sheep except for the fear that he might be caught with the animal on his back and be punished by law. Thousands of votes were bought directly and indirectly. The three principal things I have done is to reform the state prison; reform the insurance department: get the Marshes out of Tewksbury and put that institution into a decent condition, and I dare them to turn out either Usher from the state prison, Tarbox from the insurance commission or put back the Marshes, any of them.

"They say your defeat has destroyed your presidential prospects."

"I never claimed to have had any. All the republican newspapers and orators have claimed that if I was elected this year my candidature was certain and my election more than probable. The mistake they made is in laying stress on election. It is the votes that are wanted in 1884, not an election in 1883. Taking into consideration the expenditure of probably $500,000, counting everything, an importation of senators, congressmen from other states, the press against me, the civilized bull-dozing and other influences it may be easily determined that the last vote being cast that can be cast in Massachusetts in 1884, whether 10,000 majority in 310,000 votes under the circumstances does not leave Massachusetts, not one of the doubtful, but very certainly democratic states."

"Are there any other elements which you think would be likely to affect the election and give an increased democratic vote next year?"

"Many others; but those which might be personal to myself I do not care to talk about. I can, however, mention two. Our democratic mothers twenty odd years ago began having children at the rate of about three to one against the republican mothers. Children do not flourish on Beacon street and at Tewksbury. Those are now coming of age, and four out of five of them will be democratic, and that will put about 5 per cent on the democratic vote.

DEMOCRATIC PROSPECTS.

"But you have not told me, governor, about your political prospects!"

"I told you that I claimed no political prospects; but somebody is to lead the democracy to victory, under somewhat difficult circumstances. The democracy had in New York almost 200,000 majority last year, but then there was only a vote equal to that which Hancock had in 1880. That majority has melted away to 10,000 on the other side. I should not have thought that I had made my political prospects better if such a thing had happened in the state of Massachusetts. But I had last year 23,000 votes more than Hancock in 1880, and I have so husbanded my vineyard that I had this year 17,000 more than that upon an increased vote in the state of quite 30,000, while New York was lost. New York has lost, as I have before stated. Connecticut is doubtful; in New Jersey the democracy has just scraped through, and in Pennsylvania the democratic majority of last year has turned into a republican one of an indefinite quantity, the exact amount of which nobody will know until the counting is completed in Philadelphia. Even Maryland is shaking in the wind. The election in Virginia by the overthrow of Mahone has shown the democracy that they can have a solid south. But a solid south has always had a very strong tendency to bring about a solid north, so we are drifting into the old sectional lines of division by the war. Even with a solid south a party may elect a candidate without New York; but no party can elect a candidate without a hope of New York. Therefore it becomes the democracy to look to their resources for present and future strength. A victory for the democracy can only be obtained by uniting the labor element thoroughly with the party to which it naturally and properly belongs and adopting such measures and such platform as will satisfy that element and give us a victory.

A BALTIMORE CONTEST.

Two Candidates for Clerk Create More Sensation Than the Gubernatorial Aspirants.

BALTIMORE, November 13.—At the late election, James Bond, regular democrat, and Richard H. Allison, fusion, were voted for as candidates for clerk of the superior court of this city. The returns, after the close of the polls, showed the election of Bond by 309 majority. The judges are required to make their returns within ten days after an election. In the first precinct of the ninth ward, on the day of the election, the poll books were noticed to be incomplete in that the number of votes each candidate had received was omitted in the certificate of the judges of election, but the books were completed before they were returned. The precinct gave Bond a large majority, and the friends of Allison claim that the precinct should be thrown out, thereby giving their candidate a majority. In the 3d precinct of the 18th ward, on the night of the day of the election, after the tickets had been counted, it was found that there were 59 more ballots in the box than names on the poll books, giving Allison such a majority that if the 1st precinct of the 9th was thrown out he would be elected. The return judges have met daily up to yesterday, but their proceedings were not satisfactory to Allison and his friends. Allison is present clerk of the superior court, and as such is custodian of the tickets after they pass from the return judges of election. Yesterday he invited Bond to join him in a recount of the ballots, but that gentleman declined, as the organic law provides that only the house of delegates shall make a recount of ballots in the event of a contest. Allison and his friends this afternoon began a recount of the ballots, which will require several days, as there were cast at the 180 precincts in the city 56,699 ballots. So far, only a small number of the return judges have refused to sign the returns, a few under protest and five or six who insist that Mr. Allison received a majority of the votes cast. It is made the duty of the clerk of the supreme court to send the returns to the governor before any commission can issue, but if the commission shall be issued, and the party who receives it shall be found by the house of delegates not to have been elected, then another election shall follow within 30 days. The muddle daily grows thicker, and there is a probability that it will only be cleared by the action of the delegates, as the contest is bitter and relentless.

CARLISLE AND THE SPEAKERSHIP.

The Kentucky Statesman Confident That He Will Wield the Gavel.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—The speakership fight begins to take shape since the elections. Congressmen are getting thicker and the candidates are appearing. Cox has been here most of the time. Carlisle, who is generally thought to be in the lead arrived today. To the Herald representative he said that he did not care to go into the details of his canvass, but he was satisfied with the condition of things.

"I have been writing to my friends everywhere," he said, "during the summer and fall I know that I have lost nothing and I think I have gained since congress adjourned."

"Will you win?"

"I shall be chosen on the second or third ballot. If there were but two candidates the first ballot would elect me."

"Is there any chance for a dark horse?"

"No; the fight is made and will remain as it is. Either Randall, Cox or myself must be elected. I don't believe that either of us has his strength so in hand that he could turn it over to one of the others, or a new man if he wanted to. Neither one of us yet has votes enough to elect him. Yet enough of the friends of one candidate may have made up their minds that he cannot win and have concluded upon their second choice to make a first ballot sufficient."

General Joe Blackburn, who withdrew from the fight in favor of Carlisle, and thereby gave him seventeen certain votes, said to-day: "I am a Presbyterian, believe in foreordination, predestination, perseverance of saints, and what is to be, whether it ever happens or not, and therefore I say that Carlisle will be elected. That is because he ought to be, and I have confidence in democratic sense. There is no doubt, unless Carlisle's canvas is butchered by mistakes, which I have no reason to fear will be made, he will be elected."

Damages Awarded.

NEW YORK, November 13.—The suit for libel brought yesterday by Tice Bros., against Jonathan M. Roberts, editor and proprietor of the "Mind and Matter," a spiritualistic publication, was brought to a conclusion in Kings county supreme court last evening. The suit was for $5,000 damages. The jury this morning gave a verdict of $3,000.00 damages for each of the plaintiff.

The River Committee.

NEW ORLEANS, November 13.—The senate committee have returned from the jetties. It will remain a few days and hear exhibits on the river matter, but not subpoena any one.

THE FEDERAL TREASURY

THE REPORT OF THE TREASURER TO THE SECRETARY.

A Marked Decrease in Customs and Internal Revenue Receipts—An Increase from the Sales of Public Lands—Emory Speer's Reception in Washington—In the Departments.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—The annual report of the treasurer of the United States has just been submitted to the secretary of the treasury. The following are some of its more important points:

There has been a decrease during the past fiscal year from the figures for the preceding year in receipts from customs, $5,704,253; from the internal revenue, of $1,777,226; and from miscellaneous sources, of $958,932; and an increase in receipts from the sales of public lands, of $8,202,724. The total net revenue received during the year was $398,287,581, which is $5,237,668 less than the amount received last year. The net expenditures amount to $265,408,137, an increase over those of 1882 of $7,426,697, and this increase, added to the amount of decrease in the receipts, makes the reduction in the amount of surplus revenue applicable to the reduction of the public debt of $12,664,466. The principal increase of the expenditures was on account of the civil and miscellaneous expenses which amount to $7,1,548,271. The expenditures on account of interest on the public debt falling $11,919,075 below those for the same purpose during the preceding year. Collections on account of the semi-annual duty on capital circulation and deposits of national banks amounted to $4 611,252 in the first half of the fiscal year, and the collections on account of the duty on circulation in the second half to $1,564,521. Since the national banking system went into operation collections on this account have been $128,181,479.

SOME RECOMMENDATIONS.

Treasurer Wyman recommends that an appropriation be made to pay express charges for worn and mutilated United States money and for the distribution of national silver coins. He also recommends a discontinuance of the coinage of three cent pieces, and that the compensation and mileage of members of congress be made by the disbursing officer, instead of the treasurer. He urges a restoration of the salaries in the treasurer's office, which were reduced in 1876.

SPEER IN WASHINGTON.

The evening Star says Emory Speer, of Georgia, who is now in the city, has been tendered by Attorney General Brewster the position of special United States attorney in the South Carolina election cases, and he has accepted. Mr Speer was informed that Colonel Butterworth had, as special counsel, prepared all the issues, and that if "he, Speer" would take the position, he could have them. Colonel Butterworth upon taking the patent commissionership, relinquished his position as counsel in these cases, and it was at once tendered to Speer.

APPLICANTS FOR OFFICE.

An examination of applicants for the classified department service at Washington will be held at the postoffice in the city of Raliegh, North Carolina, on Friday, November 23, 1883, and at the postoffice at Columbia, South Carolina, on Tuesday, 27th of November, in each case at 10 o'clock a. m. Those wishing to be examined at that time, who have not filed the proper application papers, should at once apply to the civil service commissioners at Washington for blank applications.

LIGHT ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

Notice is given by the light house board that the light house at Merrill's shell bank, north side of the Mississippi sound, Miss., which was destroyed by fire on September 6, has been rebuilt and the light will be shown from the new structure on and after November 20.

GARLINGTOIN'S ARCTIC CRUISE.

The Investigation Now Progressing Into the Proteus Disaster.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—The court of inquiry into the conduct of the last expedition for the relief of Lieutenant Greely in the Arctic regions, has been in session several days. To-day Lieutenant Garlington was on the stand. In reply to inquiries Lieutenant Garlington described the finding of the unsigned memorandum known as enclosure No. 4, substantially as described in his report to the chief signal officer. He said he first heard of the paper in a conversation, and subsequent conversation with General Hazen left upon his mind the impression that the memorandum was the volunteer work of the executive officer, merely to have ready in case it was desired. General Hazen neither indorsed nor disavowed the memorandum and Lieutenant Garlington consequently did not regard it as an official paper in any respect. This is the document which was referred to in an explanation from the signal bureau as the Garlington supplemental instructions which, if obeyed, could have saved his expedition from total failure. Lieutenant Garlington described the stores, fire arms, etc., taken by the Proteus, and the method of storing the former. He said he sent an urgent telegram to the chief signal officer, asking that he and his party be permitted to accompany the Alhambra to St. Johns in order to personally supervise the transshipment of the stores to the Proteus, but received no reply to his telegram, and followed the previous instruction in going by the Yantic. Lieutenant Garlington said he never saw the instructions given to Commander Wildes until his return to Washington. He knew merely that that vessel was to accompany him north, subject to the circumstances and condition of the ice, but understood from the start that the Yantic was not to interfere or delay the Proteus. He expected from the beginning that when the ice pack was reached the Proteus would necessarily proceed alone, while the Yantic would seek a more circuitous and safer route. In reply to a direct inquiry by the court, Lieutenant Garlington said the Yantic was practically of no use.

"Why was she sent, then?"

"Well, as I supposed, merely to satisfy public opinion."

Lieutenant Garlington explained his parting from the Yantic at St. Johns as being due to the knowledge that he had certain preparations to make at Disco, and thought it better to proceed and get everything ready there before the Yantic arrived. The route from St. John's to Disco being open, with no possibility of danger, no necessity for two vessels to keep in company occurred to him.

A GRAVE ROBBER CONVICTED.

A Young Medical Man Found Guilty of Despoiling a Grave.

SYRACUSE, November 13.—On Saturday, March 17, 1882, Edwin L. Harmon, a prominent resident of the village of Camillus, and supervisor of the town, died, and his remains were interred in the family lot in the graveyard in that village on March 20. On the Sunday following the burial it was found that the grave had been disturbed, and on March 26 the grave was opened, when it was found that the body had been stolen. On the evening of the same date the body was discovered in the Syracuse medical college. The widow of the late Mr. Harmon had marked the grave of her late husband by placing little pieces of cedar wood where it would be impossible to obtain access to the grave without disturbing them. Finding them disturbed Mrs Harmon insisted upon having the grave opened, which was accordingly done. Then it was found that the box holding the coffin had been broken into and the body had been removed.

Henry Thomson, formerly a medical student and a graduate of Syracuse university, was arrested for robbing the grave. His trial was concluded last evening, and at 9 o'clock this morning, after remaining out all night, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty.

CRIME'S CAPERS.

Two Texas Prisoners Taken Out and Hanged in the Graveyard.

GALVESTON, November 13.—A special from Comanche says: At a late hour last night, during the sheriff's absence, a party of fifty armed masked men battered in the jail door, overpowered the guards and took out two brothers named Bailey, and hanged them both to a tree in the graveyard a mile from town. It is not stated with what crime Bailey was charged.

PETERSBURG, Va., November 13.—Howell Byrd, colored, formerly of this city and convicted in Halifax, N. C., superior court of the murder of his wife, has been sentenced to be hanged December fifteenth.

CHICAGO, November 13.—A special from Richmond, Mo., recounts an attempted assassination of Charlie Ford, one of Jesse James's slayers, at his father's house near that city. The shooting was done by persons concealed in tall weeds, while Ford was out walking after supper. Seven shots in all were fired, none of which took effect, save that one bullet passed through his clothes. Ford returned the fire without effect. The assailants rode away on horses which had been concealed in the adjoining woods. Charlie Ford has gone to Kansas city to start in search of his brother Bob, whom he thinks has been murdered.

CHARLESTON, November 13.—Mary Wolfe, one of the factory girls who leaped from the burning building on Monday afternoon, died from her injuries at 8 o'clock this morning. The remains of Laura Green and Abigail Guy were recovered this morning from the ruins. Susan Bond and Maggie Quinlan, who jumped from the building, are in a critical condition.

INDIANA, Pa., November 13.—Sarver who killed his father Saturday last, and also attempted to take the life of the house keeper, Mary Kelly, shows no signs of remorse or fear. This morning he was singing and dancing in his cell, and said "they could never hang him because he was a democrat and so was Governor Pattison." The prisoner is not believed to be insane. The Kelly girl is still living with a chance of her recovery. Her testimony has been taken, and shows conclusively that the murder was premeditated.

ACCIDENT AND DISASTER.

Three Men Buried Under the Wall of a Fallen Building.

RICHMOND, Va., November 13.—While laborers were pulling down an old brick residence this morning a portion of the wall fell and crushed three colored men, one, William Taliaferro, aged 90, fatally.

CHICAGO, November 13.—The Milwaukee schooner Arab, with tugboat Protection, had not been heard from up to 1 o'clock this morning, since she left St. Joseph, where she was pulled off the beach Saturday, and it is considered almost certain that they have gone down with all on board. On the tug were the following persons: Captain Martin Blackburry, in charge of force for the relief of the Arab; Captain Frank Anderson, in charge of the tug; Captain Fitzpatrick, pilot; Wm. Dalton, engineer; second engineer, name unknown, and six others. The Arab had a crew of seven men.

NEW ORLEANS, November 13.—The boilers in the George Pandeley's sugar house at Bony Boeuf, Ascension Parish, exploded yesterday, killing the chief engineer, the assistant overseer and a colored fireman. The victims were blown to atoms. Joe Fazende, chief engineer, was well known here. He married Miss Vallettee two weeks ago. Pandelye's loss will be heavy from the delay the explosion will occasion in the taking off the crop.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., November 12.—Early this morning the West Shore railroad construction train was thrown from the track and three box cars loaded with workmen was sent down the embankment thirty feet high. All the workmen were reported more or less hurt, and several had legs and arms broken and skulls fractured. One man was horribly mutilated. The cause of the accident was a broken journal. Thirty men in all were injured.

BY THE FLAMES.

Relief Pouring In to the People of the Burned Pennsylvania City.

SHENANDOH, Va., November 13.—The fire which was so destructive to property here yesterday, is still burning among the debris, but no further damage is apprehended. Financial relief is now arriving from other places. The homeless are being cared for by being placed with other families. The loss is fully half a million, and the insurance a little over $100 000. A number of temporary buildings are being erected.

Mrs. Philip Wolf, who was rescued from a burning building by the firemen, died this morning from fright. Her husband lost all he had. George Heaton, who had his legs cut off by a coal train, also died this morning. George Whitaker, age 27 years, had his leg broken this morning while removing some articles from the burning ruins. Pat Delaney, who lost his store and furniture, is so overcome by grief and fright that he cannot recover. Jerry O'Neil, one of the bravest firemen of this place, received serious injuries this morning. By actual count by Chief Burgess and Daniel Williams two hundred families are made homeless and destitute, causing a loss of $55,000. Joseph Robbins has started in the building of a row of houses for the poorer class of citizens this morning. The Third brigade of Pottsville will hold a concert to night for the benefit of the sufferers. Contributions are coming in fast from all sections.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., November 13.—Slemmer Brothers' oil works were burned this evening, together with 15 tanks containing 6,000 barrels of oil, and all the machinery. Loss, $75,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY.

An Idaho Man Killed and Robbed by Two Notorious Characters.

CALDWELL, Idaho, November 12.—The camp was thrown into a state of excitement early this morning by the discovery of the dead body of Brasfield A. Bryan in an unfinished hotel, with evidence of a life and death struggle about it. A man had sold a large stock of pelts and hides Saturday, and was supposed to have money on his person, but had deposited all except $300, which together with his personal property was taken. The murder was committed by two notorious characters, Sage Brush Jack and Whiting Kid, with car coupling-pins. The murdered man was asleep in blankets, all the lodging houses being full. Both were captured late this evening and lynching is expected, though later advices say the law will take its course.

A Heavy Wind.

FRIEBURG, Maine, November 13.—A terrible wind storm visited this section last night. The Summit house at Mt. Kenage, built some thirty years ago, was entirely destroyed. The new wing of the Internal house, 160 feet long, in process of erection, and two smaller buildings, owned by J. Wentworth and B. Woodward, in Conway, were blown down.

LEVY NOT LIKED.

THE LADIES OF MACON SPURN HIS COMPANY.

And Respectfully Decline to Appear on the Stage at the Atlanta Musical Festival With Him—A Man Knocked Off a Train and Killed—Other News of Importance.

MACON, GA., November 13.—A rumor was afloat this morning that was calculated to cause a serious happening to the success of the Atlanta Musical Festival. It was watched and nursed carefully all day, and this afternoon it burst out on the city in stern reality—that the Macon chorus would not attend the festival. Mr. E. D. Irvine was sought and asked the occasion of the quick, adverse decision of the members. He said: "Our ladies object to appearing on the stage with Levy, the cornetist, and have positively declined to attend, claiming that a man who rejoices at being rid of his wife and children is not a fit companion or associate for them."

One charming little soprano said, as she stamped her dainty little number 2 on the axminster, "nothing would induce me to appear with such a heartless wretch. Oh! if I only had him here now." This is the general decision of the ladies who were to have joined the party from here. The gentlemen are at the command of the manager of the festival, and it is presumed will attend. Mr. Irvine wired Manager Doepp this evening the action of the Macon delegation.

A CASE OF WIFE BEATING.

A case of wife beating was brought before the recorder this morning in which Richard Luce unmercifully whipped his wife. It seems that the downy pillow of said Richard she had prepared for him was too soft, and when he laid his head on it it sank too far down. This made him mad, and he proceeded to chastise her. She had a little baby in her arms, and it came near falling into the fire. The evidence was sustained, and Recorder Patterson administered a severe rebuke, imposing a fine of $25 and warning him to appear again would be a term in the chaingang, where money would not pay him out.

THE SAWED-OFF BOYS.

Out in Hell's half acre, about two miles from the city, is a gang of boys who have formed themselves into an organization called the Sawed Off boys, who visit the city and steal barrels and boxes and any thing they can get at. This has been kept up some time, the merchants being the sufferers. Messrs. J. R. Cheese & Co. had seven barrels of rotten apples in front of their store last night to be carried on. This gang poured out the apples and stole the barrels. They also robbed Mr. Siesel and others. To-day Sam Lucas, Dick Basset and Henry Swrimp were arrested and jailed.

A MERRY GO ROUND.

A merry-go round has been established in the old courthouse lot near Fifth street.

Rev. J. C. Field is holding a revivel service at the First Congregational church, under the auspicies of the American Missionary association.

Mr. Ed Johnson, the clever agent of THE CONSTITUTION, was in the city to-day with his many friends. He is very popular in this section and his friends are always glad to see him.

The Georgia Presbyterian synod will convene to-morrow evening at 7:30, at the Presbyterian church. A full attendance is expected and a meeting of unusual interest will be held.

One of the cleverest daily papers that circulates in Macon is the Athens Banner-Watchman.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A terrible accident happened this morning at Tobesofee bridge, about five miles from the city, in which a train hand, W. L. Graham, of No. 18, section B., Central railroad, Southwestern division, lost his life by being knocked off a box car while passing under it. Information was received soon afterwards, and in company with the coroner, Wm. Hodnett, THE CONSTITUTION representative, proceeded to the spot where the dead man was. The body had been brought to the city and lay in a cab in the yards of the Central railroad machine shops. On arriving and going into the car, a sight most terrible presented itself. Lying on his back in a pool of blood the dead man was seen, a mass of bruised and lacerated flesh. The back of his head was crushed and laid bare, his brains scattered about the floor; his right arm was off, and his left leg crushed to a jelly. On his face was depicted a terrible stare that must have come on it when he knew that the bridge must strike him. On his person were threads of clothes almost torn off. His body was muscular, and his weight about 160 pounds. A small crowd of gentlemen had gathered, and a jury was quickly summoned. Mr F. M. Tanner, the conductor of the train, stated that the man came to him and told him that he was from the Western road, of Alabama, and asked for a position as train hand. He secured the position and this was his first run on the road. The train was an extra one and followed the regular through freight. He had repeatedly warned him of the danger of being on top, and for a mile before the accident, had insisted on his coming down; he was not required to be out on top. The last time he was seen alive was just before reaching the bridge, when witness called him to look out quick. He turned towards the cab, stooping as he did so, but not enough, and the bridge struck him in the back of his head, knocking him between the cars, and a box car and cab ran over his head. The train which followed was flagged down and the body recovered. Mr. W. A. Webb, who was on the rear train, said that he was first seen by him lying about twenty-five feet from the bridge on the side where he had evidently been dragged. He was lying on his back and presented a sight too horrible to mention. Near by scattered on the ground were found a memorandum and some letters. On the back of the book was "W. L. Graham, Elmore County, Alabama," and the letters were all addressed to him in Montgomery, Alabama, post marked Eufaula. His body was placed in a cab and brought to the city soon afterwards. The time of the happening was 7 o'clock. On searching his clothes at the inquest another lot of letters were found, also a small pocketbook containing $1. He told one of his fellow workmen yesterday that he had no parents, but had two brothers and sisters living in Alabama, and that he had only one dollar in the world. His remains were provided for by the Central railroad authorities and shipped to Eufaula this afternoon. The coroner's jury rendered the following verdict: "We, the jury, find that deceased came to his death by being knocked off the train by the bridge while on top of the car." Signed by W. G. HORSE TALK.

A party of gentlemen were discussing the respective trotting abilities of their horses this afternoon and a visit to the park was the result. Mr. W. F. Harbraum entered his handsome animal against three minutes to a top buggy, and the contest was a spirited one, calling forth frequent bursts of applause from the spectators. The trotter held up well but missed the time by a few seconds. Other matches were trotted and the crowd seemed well pleased with the sport.

There were whirling in the mazy dances fully sixty couples, all aglow with beaming countenances and bright smiles. The music was furnished by Professor Kesler in one of his best efforts. The young ladies never looked prettier or the gallants more handsome. There were worn some handsome costumes. The room presented the appearance of elegance. During the evening was served a delicious repast, composed of the delicacies of the season. It was in charge of Isaacs, Macon's famous caterer, and was heartly enjoyed by all present. Among the young ladies present were numbers of strangers, who added much to the pleasant evening, among whom were Misses Zippie Williams, of Tallahassee, Fla.; Gussie Cohen, New York; Emma Hidenspelder, Toomsboro; Pauline Philis, Eatonton, and others. ### THE WORLD ABROAD.

The Crown Prince's Visit—Poole's Mistrial—The French in Tonquin.

DUBLIN, November 13.—In the trial of Joseph Poole for the murder John Kenny, the defense called no witnesses. Dr. Webb made an able argument in defense of Poole. He maintained that the government had wholly failed to prove its case ahainst him. He admitted that Poole was a member of the Fenian brotherhood, but stated that he belonged to a section of that organization that had no sympathy with assassins, and he had, moreover, incurred their enmity. He claimed that Kenny was shot in mistake for Poole. Mr. Herschell, Q. C., in closing the case for the prosecution, ridiculed the theory of the defense which, he said, was wild and incredible. Justice Murphy, in summing up the case, expressed the opinion that Kenny was not murdered in mistake. He said the fact that Poole told Lamie how Kenny was killed, and that the "daggers used in the murder were no good; that they might as well have been chisels," was borne out by the appearance of the wounds upon the body of Kenny. It was evident, said the justice, that the murder was deeply planned, and he asked the jury if they put the evidence of Lamie aside, had they any doubt that Kenny was the person intended for murder. During the delivery of the justice's charge Poole started up and accused him of acting the part of a prosecutor. The case was given to the jury which, after a consultation of an hour, returned and announced that they could not agree upon a verdict. The jury were then discharged. On Monday next the case will be retried.

THE AMERICAN BISHOPS.

A GREAT STRIKE PROBABLE.

MANCHESTER, England, November 13.—A meeting of the joint committee of manufacturers and weavers was held here to-day. The representatives of the working men reported that the result of the ballot taken last evening by the operatives was largely in favor of a strike rather than submit to a reduction of wages. Thereupon the meeting dispersed and negotiations between the manufacturers and their employes are broken off. A great strike will probably result.

SHORT TALKS WITH THE SCRIBES OF THE COUNTY PRESS.

Full Details of the Milledgeville Murder—A Human Monstrosity—The Drouth in Screven—A Suspected Negro Arrested—A Burke County Thief—Other Interesting News.

The Savannah News says that Inman, the wife murderer, has been given a change of venue to Jefferson county.

In Scriven county the drouth is simply terrible. The sugar cane crop is damaged, and the seed for the next crop destroyed. Farmers in some parts of the county are driving their cattle several miles to the Ogeechee river for water. The cotton crop is all picked and nearly all shipped. Similar reports come from nearly all the counties between Savannah and Macon.

Harris Wilson and Cap Kennedy, both colored, who have been in Chatham county jail for some time on a commitment from Effingham county, will be taken before the superior court of that county this week for trial. Wilson is under arrest for a misdemeanor, but Kennedy will be tried for shooting another colored man, not in his own defense.

Jim Crummidy, tried and convicted in Dodge superior court for the murder of Mr. James A. Mitchell, at Chauncy last September, will be publicly executed on the fourth day of next January. His accomplice, Mose Bryant, was convicted of murder in the second degree, with a recommendation to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

The total interments in Laurel Grove cemetery, Savannah, from its opening, 1852, the 31st anniversary of its dedication, as we learn from the register of the keeper, was: Whites, 12,297; colored, 18,152; total, 30,549.

At a church supper in Waynesboro, a lady had her pockets picked of ten dollars.

Athens Banner: A little covered wagon from Madison county rolled into town yesterday, in which was a white family. Among the children was one seven years old that had an abnormal head, being larger than a grown man's. The child was seven years old, and of course had never walked a step, but was reposing on a pallet spread in the bottom of the vehicle, walling its eyes. The mother was a nice looking young woman, and her other children were all perfectly formed. Large crowds of both white and black gathered around the wagon to see the monstrosity. The mother answered all questions politely, and seemed to be not in the least annoyed at the attention her child attracted.

Effingham superior court is in session.

Miss Penny Wimberly, a young lady from Twiggs county, who was on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Burgess, of Laurens county, had her clothes to catch on fire, last Tuesday and was burned so badly that she died Tuesday night.

The "Sons and Daughters of Jacob," alias the "Sons and Daughters of Isreal," in Montgomery county, have been carrying on a series of night meetings for two or three weeks. The music consists of a kettle drum, a fife and a horn.

Savannah News: About eighteen months ago a negro living in Beaufort district, South Carolina, was killed, and though an effort was immediately made to secure the name of the man who committed the crime, the authorities were for a time baffled in their investigations. It was finally learned that a mulatto about 35 years of age, and about 5 feet 11 inches in height, was connected with the tragedy. The man was also said to resemble an Indian in features and complexion, and it was intimated that he fled to Georgia, whereupon a reward was offered by the governor of that state for his capture. The culprit, who is said to be William Straine, at length came to Savannah and married and occupied a house in Brownsville, where he lived in fancied security for some months. Straine does not seem to have had the remotest idea of concealing himself while here. He moved about quite freely and made many acquaintances. A few days ago Mr. Waring Russell, Sr., heard that Straine was in this vicinity, and night before last decided to effect his arrest. The accused had a reputation of being a bold and dangerous fellow, and that as he was usually well armed would probably make a desperate effort to retain his liberty. During the night Mr Russell discovered the whereabouts of the fugitive, and taking two detectives, went to a house in Brownsville and called Straine out. The latter, finding that one side of the house was guarded, took a pistol and attempted to rush out through a door on the opposite side, where he was, however, met by a man who pointed a shotgun at his head and compelled him to surrender. The prisoner and his captors returned to the city about five o'clock yesterday morning, when he was placed in jail.

Waynesboro Citizen: About two months ago, a negro who had been employed by Mr. Thomas to wait on his room, stole two suites of clothes and a fine double-barreled shotgun, and departed. Mr. Thomas has been on the lookout for him ever since, and on Wednesday night found him in H. Franklin's barroom. After a lively race the bird was captured with some of the clothing on his person, and now gets his fresh air sifted through the bars of the jail.

The Macon Telegraph gives the following account of the Baldwin county homicide: On Saturday afternoon last John Tollison, a quiet, peaceful and temperate citizen, was killed at Double Branches, on the southern suburbs of the city, by Alexander McMillen and his two sons, John and Dan, John West Lingold and Aus Wilson in such a manner as to make all good citizens fear that a foul murder was perpetrated in our midst. The deceased is a young man with a wife and five children, without means, and lived in Scottsboro district. Alexander McMillen and sons are white tenants on the land of the late Farish C. Furman. They had been drinking at Kreutz's bar, where the difficulty first started, but were on their way home when the killing occurred. The body of the deceased was fearfully cut—one large wound made with a knife in his back, one in his abdomen, and the one that killed him in the neck severed the carotid artery and jugular vein, killing him instantly. All parties, except John West Lingold, who is still at large, were arrested almost on the spot. Coronor Scott immediately summoned a jury, with Oscar Cone as foreman, but in consequence of the lateness of the hour, adjourned over until 9 o'clock next morning, and had the body conveyed to the court room. William Tollison, brother of the deceased, when sworn said he, with the deceased, was in Kreutz's bar late Saturday afternoon, and played a game for a drink with Alex McMillin. After winning twice he remarked to McMillen, "I have won," when McMillen called him a d—n lie. Brother John then said, "Stop, boys; I'll give 50 cents rather than have a fuss," and asked me to go home. As we were leaving Alex McMillen said: "We will settle this on the road." Brother John and I then left for home and got to Chancy Wright's house, when I asked them to go back and get a drink, but, as he never drank, he refused. We then started home and got to Fishing creek bridge, where John McMillen caught up with us. Harrison Barnes sworn, said: When I got to the north end of the Fishing creek bridge on my way home Saturday evening, I noticed a difficulty at the other end of the bridge. I saw John McMillen jump from his mule and strike William Tollison and did something, from the distance I couldn't hear nor tell what, and instantly heard a pistol shot and saw John McMillen advancing on John Tollison, when the latter shot again, running behind his mule trying seemingly to get out of his way. McMillen first had his hand in his pocket; then his knife in his hand. I could not hear a word. There were with Tollison the old man Tollison, John and William, and I think Mr. Allen was not far off. After the shots, the Tollisons ran, and I saw coming down the road Alex McMillen, Dan McMillen, John West Lingold, and ten steps behind Aus. Wilson. Alex McMillen had a pistol, Dan McMillen a pistol, John West Lingold a knife and Aus. Wilson, well—a—well—his hat in his hand hollowing, "Where are they?" In passing me John West Lingold dropped his bundle and I picked it up. The Tollisons ran, shooting from the pursuing party going on all the time—some twelve or fifteen shots. Finally they caught him about 150 yards in the branch. I heard Alex McMillen say, "By God, we have him; kill him!" And as he passed me he holloed, "Kill him! kill him!" The other evidence was substantially the same. After all was quiet, it was found that Josh Dubois was cut in the shoulder; how nobody knows yet. The verdict of the jury has not been made public, as one of the parties has not yet been arrested.

Chattanooga Times: There is a new development in the emigration fever in Georgia, which is attracting considerable attention. During the past few months there has been a steady and constant flow of emigrants from middle Georgia to Sand Mountain, Alabama, west of the Alabama Great Southern railroad. A few days ago two families, comprising sixteen souls passed through this city en route from Georgia to that point, and they inform us that a number of others contemplate removing at an early day. During the past six months fully one hundred families have joined the colonies on Sand Mountain. The chief attraction seems to be a fertile soil, which produces half a bale of cotton to the acre, and is unequaled for fruit raising. Land is going up rapidly, and government farms of 160 acres, which a short time since were entered for $16 are now selling at $70 per acre.

Newnan Advertiser: Sheriff Carmical invaded our office on Saturday with an old umbrella just drawn out from under the floor of the courthouse. In making some changes it was necessary to take up a portion of the floor, when it was discovered. It is of the old style, with whalebone ribs, and has a patch on it, and a few holes that have come of decay. The steel about it is entirely free from rust. How long has it been hid away? Was it when the house was built, or when the offices were brought down stairs more than thirty years ago? Is its owner dead or alive? It was an object of considerable interest to those who saw it. There is no name or anything to indicate the owner. The sheriff says he believes he will preserve it among the archives.

MORGAN'S MINIONS.

CHATTANOOGA, November 13.—Elder John Morgan, superintendent of the Mormon missionary service in the southern states, arrived in this city from Utah to-day. ### Americus, Georgia.

A LONG DRY SPELL.

Special to The Constitution.

AMERICUS, November 13.—One hundred and thirty days since we had a good rain, and the results are becoming alarming. In many places people are hauling the water they use for domestic purposes several miles from creeks which are also beginning to show signs of failure. It has been impossible to put in fall oats, and to sow in December invites failure of a crop by having them killed by cold while germinating.

A NEW COURT HOUSE.

An election will be held in this county to-morrow for the purpose of voting authority to our county commissioners to issue $30,000 bonds to build a new court house. It takes a two-thirds vote to give the authority. Some efforts are being made to defeat the project, which we fear will succeed. A new court house is much needed, and the plan proposed by the commissioners is a prudent and wise one.

ENTERPRISING CITIZENS.

Several enterprising citizens from the north have recently settled in our city and we are promised a considerable addition to our population from the same source in the near future. Major Glessner, of the Recorder, is doing a good work for this section by words truly and fitly spoken in its praise; he himself a northern man, sends a large number of each issue of his paper to the north, which has elicited much interest in southwestern Georgia, and is already bearing fruit by inducing good and substantial immigration. By his manly journalistic course and blameless private life among us, Major Glessner has already obtained a fast hold upon our people.

Theron Hawks, of Augusta, an old Americus boy, is with us on a visit, to the delight of all.

The Ground Pea Crop.

From the Fort Valley Miror.

—The ground peas are now being harvested. The crop is better than one would expect from the very dry season. More attention is beginning to be paid to this crop as a money maker in this vicinity. And why not? A little attention to the subject will convince anybody that for clear profit, ground peas are a surer and more desirable crop than king cotton itself. Why, just look at the two crops this year. A 500 pound bale to four acres a better than average crop of cotton. This bale was worth about $45, making a gross income of $11 per acre. The expense of guano, about eight months steady cultivation, gathering, ginning and warehouse charges, did not leave $5 clear profit. We will now look on the other picture. Where the large Virginia ground pea was planted on poor sandy land and cultivated in three feet rows the average yield will be above twenty bushels to the acre, and the season very dry and unfavorable at that. The market price of the ground pea is more, but put it at a dollar and we have twenty dollars per acre, and ten dollars will cover the cost of making five acres. Do we see the difference? More yet; over and above the twenty bushels gathered we leave pickings for our porkers that will put many dollars worth of solid fat on them. Let us think of these things and be wise.

A Cunning Cow.

From the Merriwether Vindicater.

—Our old friend, W. F. M. of Gill's district, reports a cunning cow that jumps out of the cowpen at night, jumps into an enclosure containing a number of fodder stoacks, eats as much fodder as she desires, jumps out of the enclosure and back into the cowpen and is found next morning chewing her cud as innocently as if she had never been out of her tracks during the night. Her cunning thefts were only discovered by putting a bell upon Miss Tukey, the tinkling of the bell betraying her presence at the fodder stack.

A Milton Hunter.

From the Milton Democrat.

Mr. Willie Brown on last Tuesday, combined the avocations of Nimrod and Simon Peter and went forth through wooded vales and along murmuring streams. And at night fall he returned weary and heavy laden with 13 squirrels, one duck and ten pounds of fish as the result of his day's sport. We received our quota for which we return thanks and if he will furnish the bait and ammunition we will employ him to fish and hunt on halves all this winter.

The First Flock of Cranes.

From the Perry Journal.

—The first flock of migratory cranes which have noticed for several years, passed over town going in a southerly direction, last Friday night, about supper time, and as was at once predicted, their passage was followed by the recent coal snap. It is said that when these birds are observed to observed to seek marmer latitudes' a severe winter invariably follows.

Mr. Joseph L. Quinn, a boss corn raiser on the Felker farm hard by the Connasauga, has corn fifty ears of which make a sound and round bushel.

AN ENGINEER'S STORY.

How He was Compelled to Leave His Engine After Twelve Years of Constant Work.

From the Reading, Pa., Eagle.

"You look like a healthy man," said our representative, as he shook hands with Mr. Daniel Moyer (living at 1005 Aley street, this city), as he jumped from engine No. 161, at the Reading depot, on a pleasant evening not long since.

"Yes," said Mr. M.; "but I only have a few minutes to spare and must necessarily be brief. It is only for a short time that I have been able to present so good an appearance." And Mr. M., continuing on, said, "I have been in the employ of the P. & R. R. R. Co., as an engineer, twelve (12) years and in that time have never had an accident or received a scratch. I have run regular and extras, having often run for an entire week with only two night's sleep, and I can truly tell you that is what 'breaks a man up.' But then the sudden changes of the weather are the most dreaded. Last winter, while I was running the regular from here to Harrisburg, I caught a severe cold and my kidneys became seriously affected, in consequence of which I was obliged to leave my engine for a short time. At times when I would get out of the 'cab' I would suffer such severe pains in my back and side that I could hardly stand; and, as I was saying, was obliged to leave work. As you may well suppose I became alarmed, especially when I found that the medicines I was using were bringing me no relief. Luckily, about this time, I saw an advertisement in the Eagle of Hunt's Remedy, and procured a bottle of it. Relief came soon; after taking a few doses I became conscious that a beneficial change was in progress; It was doing me more good than all the medicine I had taken. I continued in its use until I had used two (2) bottles; the pains all left; I became well, and, as you now see, am all 'O. K.' as to my kidneys, and Hunt's Remedy did it."

The conductor shouted "all aboard," the bell rang, the engine snorted, and away went a long train of cars laden with human freight, in charge of Mr. Daniel Moyer, as brave, courteous, and daring a man as ever pulled the throttle. And such is the story of an incident in the life of a man whose whole life is one of incidents.

Mr. S. R. Woodruff, of Rochester, N. Y., writes June 14, 1883, as follows: "I have used Hunt's Remedy for kidney disease and have been greatly benefited thereby."

Loss and Gain.

CHAPTER I.

"I was taken sick a year ago
With bilious fever."

"My doctor pronounced me cured, but I got sick again with terrible pains in my back and sides, and I got so bad I
Could not move!
I shrunk!
From 228 lbs. to 120! I had been doctoring for my liver, but it did me no good. I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters. Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles I am not only as sound as a sovereign but weigh more than I did before. To Hop Bitters I owe my life."

Dublin, June 6, '81. R. FITZPATRICK.

CHAPTER II.

"Malden, Mass., Feb. 1, 1880. Gentlemen—
I suffered with attacks of sick headache."
Neuralgia, female trouble, for years in the most terrible and excruciating manner.
No medicine or doctor could give me relief or cure until I used Hop Bitters.
"The first bottle
Nearly cured me;"
The second made me as well and strong as when a child,
"And I have been so to this day."
My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious
"Kidney, liver and urinary complaint,

THE SUPREME COURT

DECISIONS RENDERED TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1883.

Hon. James Jackson, Chief Justice; Hons. Samuel Hall and M. H. Blandford, Associate Justices—Reported for The Constitution by J. H. Lumpkin, Supreme Court Reporter.

Turner vs. State. Murder, from Meriwether. Criminal Law. Continuance. Attorney and Client. Evidence. Witness. Charge of Court. Jurors. (Before Judge Harris.)

Jackson, C. J.—1. Grounds of error abandoned will not be considered.

(a) Where, after the discharge of the traverse jurors for the first week of the regular term of court, but during the attendance of those summoned for the second week, the judge ordered that the traverse jurors of the regular term attend a special term to be held at a time fixed, a reasonable construction of such order would be that the jurors in attendance when the order was put upon the minutes should attend such special term, not those which had been discharged.

(b). The court may draw a new jury for a special term, or may compel the attendance of those from the regular term; and jurors from the regular term, competent when drawn, are competent on the trial, although there may have been a revision of the jury box since they were drawn. Code, § 3245; 42 Ga., 9; 55 Id., 391.

2. Motions for continuance are addressed to the sound discretion of the presiding judge, and unless abused, such discretion will not be controlled.

(a). A motion for continuance being based on the absence of a witness who was in another state, and whose testimony would be only corroborative of that introduced, and no means of procuring the attendance of such witness being shown, there was no abuse of discretion in refusing the continuance. 47 Ga., 606; 60 Id., 257.

(b). Where a continuance was asked in a criminal case on the ground of the sickness of one of defendant's attorneys, but the defendant swore that another one of his attorneys, of whom he had four, was leading attorney, and did not swear that he could not go safely to trial without the services of the absent attorney, there was no abuse of discretion in refusing the continuance; nor was it rendered necessary on a renewal of the motion, because of the introduction of testimony tending to show that the absent attorney was the leading one for the defendant. 54 Ga., 660; 64 Id., 374.

3. Where, on a trial for murder, another indictment for murder against the defendant, in which the deceased was the prosecutor, was admitted in evidence, it was not error of which the defendant could complain that the court confined the jury to the consideration of that indictment for the purpose of illustrating motive or malice towards the deceased, and that the presumption was that the accused was innocent in that case.

4. A witness who had long known the deceased could give his opinion of the latter's character as dangerous or otherwise.

(a). Whether a witness is successfully impeached is a question for the jury. If so impeached, he should not be believed; if corroborated, he may be believed, and the corroboration may be by circumstances or by other witnesses.

(b) Section 4234 of the Code was inapplicable to the case.

5. Where one knows the general character of a witness in the town where he once lived, he may testify as to that character for veracity, although the witness has moved several miles into the country. The weight of such testimony is for the jury.

(a). A charge that "inasmuch as murder embraces the lower grades of homicide, the defendant can not only be convicted of murder under the indictment in this case, if the evidence should authorize it, but if not guilty of murder may be guilty of voluntary manslaughter, if the evidence require it," was not error. The use of the words "authorize" and "require," in order to vary the expression, could not harm the defendant.

(b). The verdict is supported by the evidence.

6. Where the surety on a defendant's bond in a criminal case requested the presiding judge to say to the sheriff that if the defendant was tried, he desired to be relieved as soon as the trial commenced, which message was delivered, and after a motion for a continuance had been overruled, and at the dinner recess, before any of the jury were empaneled, the defendant was taken into custody by the sheriff on his own motion, there was nothing in this to require a new trial, it not appearing that the defendant was kept in such custody as not to have freedom of intercourse and consultation with his counsel.

7. Unless the attention of the court is called to the use of vituperation by counsel towards defendant in a criminal case, and the making of statements of fact outside of the evidence, a failure to stop counsel in argument is not good ground for new trial. 65 Ga., 525; 57 Id., 42; 46 Id., 26; 11 Id., 629.

8. Where allegations of partiality on the part of a juror are met and rebutted by his own affidavit and those of others, showing his impartiality, sustaining his character for uprightness and truthfulness, and that bad feeling existed between him and the witnesses who testified as to his partiality, there was no error in refusing a new trial. 5 Ga., 139; 14 Id., 712; 15 Id., 544; 17 Id., 512; 11 Id., 616; 38 Id., 296; 43 Id., 238, 516; 45 Id., 279; 58 Id., 577; 61 Id., 182; 68 Id., 696.

Judgment affirmed.

A. H. Freeman; W. A. Turner; H. W. Hill; A. H. Cox; P. F. Smith, for plaintiff in error.

H. M. Reid, solicitor general; J. W. Park; B. F. McLaughlin, T. A. Atkinson, for the state.

Norris et al. vs. Dunn et al. Equity, from Pike. Year's support. Color of title. Prescription. Judgment. (Before E. Womack, Esq., Judge pro hoc vice.)

Hall, J.—1. Where, after the death of a landowner, his estate, which was of less value than $500.00, was set apart as a year's support for his widow and three children by her, without mentioning two children of the decedent by a former marriage, and the persons to whom the year's support was so set apart took exclusive possession of the property under claim of title, this constituted a severance from the other children, and a prescriptive title began to run; and if that claim, accompanied by such possession, was continuous, adverse, open, notorious and peaceable for the statutory period after the excluded children became of age, then the prescription ripened into a perfect title, unless it originated in fraud to which the claimants were parties, and which was kept concealed from the adverse parties, who were vigilant in their efforts to discover it but failed to do so.

(a). Where a prescriber relied upon actual ouster of a co-tenant as a point from which adverse possession began to run, it was error to charge the jury that actual notice was necessary in order that a prescription should begin to run. Adverse possession against a cotenant may begin to run after actual ouster, or exclusive possession after demand, or express notice of adverse possession. Code, § 2303.

(b). Although the proceedings may have been irregular, the judgment purporting to vest the title in the applicants for a year's support was color of title on which prescription could be based. 46 Ga., 9; Freeman's Cotenancy, § 224 and citations, § 227, 3 How., 688, 689 and citatations; 4 Mason C. C., 330; 4 Leonard 52; Code, § 2303.

(c). Fraud will not be presumed from the mere omission from the proceedings of the names of some of the children who lived with their grandparents, and for whose support provision had been made by the decedent.

Judgment reversed.

Jackson, C. J., concurred.

Blandford, J., dissented.

J. S. Pope; W. S. Whitaker, for plaintiffs in error.

E. F. Dupree; John I. Hall, for defendants.

---

Scott, Horton & Co. vs. Russell. Claim, from Floyd. Distress Warrant. Landlord and Tenant. Crops. Levy and Sale. Claim. (Before Judge Stewart.)

Hall, J.—1. Immature crops cannot be levied on separately from the land on which they are growing, except where the debtor absconds or removes from the county or state. Such grounds for levying on growing crops, if they exist, should appear in the process or the levy; otherwise the levy will be void. Code, § 2526.

2. Where a distress warrant alleged that the debt was past due and the defendant was removing the rents and crops from the rented premises, but the plaintiff's evidence showed that the debt was not due, the proceeding should have been dismissed. Such process is in derogation of common law and common right, and the statute giving it must be strictly construed and literally pursued. Errors or omissions cannot be corrected by amendment or supplied by evidence.

(a). Whether the warrant was void. Quaere. Code, §§ 1977, 2285, 1991.

3. Property distrained for rent may be claimed as in other cases, and the claimant may avail himself of any objection to the process that the defendant could have urged.

Judgment reversed.

E. J. Kiker & Son, for plaintiffs in error.

T. W. Milner; Dabney & Fouche, for defendant.

---

Freeman vs. State. Murder, from Floyd. Criminal Law. Charge of Court. New Trial. (Before Judge Branham.)

Hall, J.—1. The charge in this case, as a whole, was full and fair, and covered every possible theory of the defence set up.

2. On a trial of a defendant for murder, it is the duty of the court to give to the jury the definition of each grade of homicide and also the law of justifiable homicide, provided the testimony will authorize it; but where there is no evidence whatever on which the jury could base a verdict finding defendant guilty of involuntary manslaughter, a failure to charge on that subject is not error. 22 Ga., 75, 76, 83, 84; 10 Id., 101; 5 Id. 441; 26 Id., 156; 31 Id., 424; 36 Id., 222; 41 Id., 485, 504, 505; 25 Id., 200, 215, 216; Durham v. State (Feb. Term, 1883); 65 Ga. 147; 56 Id., 113; 55 Id., 697; 64 Id., 319; 52 Id., 607, 611.

(a). The evidence shows a plain case of murder. Code, § 4337.

(b) Every person is presumed to intend the natural and necessary consequences of his acts.

3. Although there may be a mutual intention and agreement to fight, yet if one of the disputants kill the other with malice, it is murder. 20 Ga., 67, 72, 73.

(a). There was no evidence on which to base a charge as to a mutual intention or agreement to fight, and such a charge should have been refused. 55 Ga. 48, 50.

4. There was no error in charging that the presumption of innocence remained with the defendant until overcome by evidence showing his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

Judgment affirmed.

Wright, Meyerhardt & Wright, for plaintiff in error.

J. I. Wright, solicitor general; T. W. Alexander, for the state.

---

Cothran, next friend, et al. vs. Brower et al. Equity, from Floyd. New Trial. Practice in Superior Court. Practice in Supreme Court. (Before Judge Brown.)

Blandford, J.—1. Where the exception is to the refusal of the court below to dismiss a motion for new trial for want of service in proper time, if there be nothing to show that any evidence was introduced by either side on the motion to dismiss, this court will presume that there was none, but that the question was determined by the court below from an inspection of the record, and a motion to dismiss the writ of error because no evidence is contained in the bill of exceptions will be overruled.

2. Except in extraordinary cases, all applications for a new trial must be made during the term when the trial was had. Where an order was taken allowing a motion for new trial to be made in vacation and it was so made, it was fatally defective.

3. If a consent order be taken during the term of the trial allowing a specified time within which to make out and file a motion for new trial in vacation and another specified time within which service thereof should be made upon the respondent, every condition of the consent must be complied with or the consent goes for naught. Where no service appears to have been made within the time prescribed, the motion for new trial will be dismissed on motion.

Judgment reversed.

D. S. Printup; J. W. H. Underwood, for plaintiffs in error.

C. N. Featherston; T. W. Alexander, for defendants.

---

Ingraham vs. Barber. Assumpsit, from Polk. Principal and Agent. Ratification. Negligence. (Before Judge Branham.)

Blandford, J.—Although an agent, employed to sell property, and with whom the notes for purchase money were left for collection, may have violated his duty in failing to secure or collect the same and in rescinding the trade without authority, yet if he subsequently sold the same property to another and received land in part payment therefor and a note for the balance, and if the principal received the land and note and brought suit on the latter for the balance of the purchase money, she thereby ratified the action of her agent, and could not thereafter bring suit against him on account of his conduct in connection with the original transaction.

Judgment affirmed.

J. A. Blance; E. N. Broyles, by brief, for plaintiff in error.

Ivy F. Thompson; Dabney & Fouche, for defendant.

---

Prentice vs. Elliott. Equity, from Floyd. Partners. Statute of Limitations. Interest and Usury. Equity. (Before Judge Brown.)

Blandford, J.—1. After the dissolution of a partnership, the statute of limitations does not begin to run in favor of one partner against another until the partnership affairs as to debtors and creditors of the firm have been wound up and settled, or, at least, a sufficient time has elapsed since the dissolution to raise the presumption that such was the fact. Each partner is the agent and trustee of the firm and of the other partner as to the collection of its assets and the payment of its debts. Nor while there are outstanding assets and liabilities, will a partner be barred as against his copartner on the principle of stale demands. 20 Ga., 556.

2. A partnership may be liable for interest to one partner who makes advances for or to the firm when there is a special contract to that effect, or where it may be implied from the circumstances that the firm was to pay interest for such advances; otherwise the partner will not be entitled to interest for such advances or payments, but the liability of the firm will be by account.

(a.) A claim by a partner for advances made for the firm is not an account stated, nor an account which by custom bears interest from the end of the year. The amount due cannot be ascertained until an accounting is had between the partners. S. W. R. R. vs. State, and vice versa, (February Term, 1883).

(b.) The judgment is reversed unless interest to the time of the trial be written off from the verdict.

Judgment reversed on terms.

Underwood & Rowell, for plaintiff in error.

Forsyth & Hoskinson; D. S. Printup, for defendant.

Neither Alum or Ammonia are natural products and should not be used in articles for our daily food. Many of the Baking Powders in the market contain one or the other of these drugs, and that Powder so extensively advertised is absolutely pure contains Ammonia, while Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is free from both, being perfectly pure.

Yesterday's Dreadful Accident.

There were a good many accidents yesterday. There will be some to-day, and probably more or less to-morrow. Children are tumbling down stairs. Women are lighting fires with kerosene. Boys are playing with pistols. Big men are spraining their ankles as they try to catch the moving train. Babies will get their little thumbs caught in the doors. Bruised shins, dislocated joints and mashed fingers constantly remind us that accidents may take place at any moment. People who have PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER can smile at most of the accidents that befall them. Those who have not tried it are reminded that they do not have to run further than the nearest drug store to buy it.

I used almost every kind of salve to heal the wounds, which turned to running sores, but found nothing to do me any good till I was recommended HENRY'S CARBOLIC SALVE. I bought a box and it helped me at once, and at the end of two months I was completely well. It is the best salve in the market, and I never fail of telling my friends about it, and urge them to use it whenever they need a salve.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. ### THE GREAT REFORMER.

The Luther celebrations are ended, and the world realizes anew the heroic nature of the man who stood up at Worms against all the world in favor of his own conscience. And yet this same man of genius who demanded liberty of judgment for himself was loth afterwards to grant it to his brother reformers in England and Switzerland. Great as he was, he was still human, and he had no soft side for those who did not accept his views. Of all plants in this world toleration has been of the slowest growth. In a good portion of the world religious toleration is still a thing dreamed of. Much progress has been made since Luther's time, but toleration pure and simple in religion, as in nearly all other affairs, is an ideal that we are painfully traveling century after century towards. Luther, a giant, demanded it for himself in the middle ages, but it is freely denied in the nineteenth century, just as Luther himself later in life denied it to other workers.

We did not intend, however, at the outset to write so much of toleration as to suggest that Martin Luther's memory has a firmer and broader hold than that of any other man in the world's history. He was born nine years before America was discovered, and yet the recent anniversary of his birth was celebrated from one end of the world to the other. Almost every tongue and people unites in keeping his memory green. The Latin nations are a little backward in this matter, but all the rest of the civilized world paid tribute in the past week to the man whom Carlyle describes as "a true great man, great in intellect, courage, affection, sincerity; one of our most lovable and precious men." What king, conqueror or statesman stands at the end of four hundred years where Luther stands to-day? Search the records, and we find only one man to rival him in popular and enduring esteem—Shakspeare. When the quater-century of the immortal poet is reached no doubt the celebrations throughout the civilized world will rival those that have recently been reported; and in the long hereafter these men will stand out as the two mightiest figures the Christian world has ever known. Wholly unlike, neither of whom would probably have liked the other if they had livid in one age, yet each holds a grand place in men's minds, and so they doubtless will to the end of time.

SCHOOL GIRLS AND GROWN GIRLS.

The remarks of THE CONSTITUTION concerning practical education for girls have had the good fortune to attract the attention of a very accomplished lady, who, as if doubting our earnestness in the matter, is inclined to take a humorous view of the discussion—and there is no doubt that it has its humorous side. Our correspondent says:

"You want a sort of feminine Squeers to take hold of the poor little girls with the fine practical method adopted by the preceptor of Dotheboys Hall. You remember what he told Nicholas Nickleby about the use of the globes. The boy who spelled 'bottinney,' and defined it as 'a knowledge of plants,' was directed to go into the garden and become acquainted with plants by weeding the vegetables. Utile cum—ingun tops. You want us to learn a few facts about carbonic acid, and alkaline salts, and carbonic anhydride, and whiffs of oxygen, when behold! Mrs. Squeers bids us hie away to the kitchen and become familiar with the beautiful chemical results to be obtained in that fiery region. Mr. Herbert Spencer has written a chapter to show that science and poetry are entirely compatible. Well, we who are unlearned in science know that a pinch of table salt can change in a twinkling a big, wriggly, gray snail to a tiny green streak—but how we care not. We know the value of sodium carbonate, of ammonia ghosts, of match-heads, and—of punkin yams.

"But to return to our mutton-heads. It has been sung in our ears that the way to a man's heart is down his throat. A wife must not expect to retain the respect and love of her lord unless she has good bread and all the accompaniments of a comfortable and digestible meal. Cooking is trying work, as you may easily discover, Messrs. Editors, and I, for one, do not think it any more just for me to roast myself in the cause of hot biscuit for my husband's supper than it would be for him to eat cold light bread—which is not a bad thing to do.

"But I am possessed of one soft spot in a hard heart. I will even cook if that can add to the comfort or pleasure of the poor unfortunate who has laid himself liable to my whims. Any girl can learn to cook in a few months. We need to adopt the German method of instruction; I do not approve of sewing, and cooking, and teaching being sandwiched between books. When a girl reaches the conjugal mood in her life's infliction of the verb 'to love,' she will learn how to 'keep house'—that term means volumes—as naturally as a duck swims, if she be a woman worthy of the name."

The concluding paragraph of the foregoing is very suggestive. Our correspondent will cook if that will add to the comfort or pleasure of her husband. So will any woman, but that is not the point. Our correspondent has had advantages that few girls have. She was brought up to the management of a household and is thoroughly acquainted with all the details of housekeeping—a word that means volumes. To cook and to keep house is a little more than a woman with a family can be expected to do; but it is not too much to expect that she should know how both should be done, so that by the resources of good management alone she may be able to make home happy.

This is the point upon which THE CONSTITUTION insists that the education of our girls shall be made to include some of the practical accomplishments of life. It is not necessary that they should become professional cooks, but they should absorb, along with their crewel work and their piano practice, some idea of the details of household management, some idea of the practical duties which they will be called upon to discharge when they assume the real responsibilities of life. Our correspondent wants the girls to enjoy their music and their painting while yet they may. So do we; but the trouble is that in nine cases out of ten, music and painting are more terrible tasks to school girls than housekeeping would be. But the accomplishments need not be discarded for the practical—if we may use the word. A woman who knows what is going on in the kitchen appears just as well in the parlor as the woman who knows nothing of the kitchen or of the management of her own household. The engineer who planned and built the Brooklyn bridge was not called on to put a rope or a rivit in place, but the bridge could not have been built without him. Teach girls some idea of practical management, and it will not be necessary for them to go into the kitchen, or to tear up the carpets in order to keep house.

THE rich men in New York appear to be little better than dead beats. They get from under the clutches of the tax collector with remarkable alacrity. When men like Wm. H. Vanderbilt and Cyrus Field swear that their debts exceed their assets it is a fitting time for petty swindlers to evade the law. John Kelly pays as taxes on property $5,000, while he is erecting one dozen houses on 53rd street that will cost $9,000 each.

The Astors lease a great deal of their wealth and are liable for only half a million on the tax books. While everybody knows that D. O. Mills, the hoosier millionaire, is worth an enormous pile, he is put down at $22,000. The Mills building, which cost over a million, gets out on the plea that it was not complete when the assessment was made. Jay Gould says he is liable for $21,000 of real estate tax in New York and this is no bigger whopper than he has often told before. Henry Villard, who is building a million dollar residence, is assessed at only $3,500 while Sidney Dillon gets out on $1,500. William H. Vanderbilt would be insulted by any man who said that he was worth less than $20,000,000, and yet he pays tax on the sum of $48,000. Mrs. A. T. Stewart seems to be the most honest of the millionaires, for she admits in her returns that she owns $7,000,000, while she has at least twice that sum. In view of the entire tax lists the whole crowd of New York millionaires display that spirit which, if they were poor, would make them communists, and if they were in extremity would transform them into highwaymen.

LADY DUFFUS HARDY has just published a book of travels, entitled "Down South." Lady Hardy went to Florida, where she saw prairies "covered for thousands of miles together with shallow crystal water." She says that Jacksonville is the nicest town in the whole business. Florida will please send Lady Duffus Hardy a bouquet.

"CULTURE," says the Chicago News, "begins at home." This is probably the reason why the south is solid.

THE inter-state commission on federal aid to education—a commission that sprang from the Louisville convention made up of delegates appointed by governors of the states—met recently in New York. They then and there decided to ask congress to appropriate $5,000,000 annually for a period of twelve years—the money to be distributed on the basis of illiteracy of the population between the ages of 10 and 21. There are 2,035,595 illiterates of this class in the country, and if congress grants the aid asked for the scale of distribution is to be $4 per capita for the first three years; $3 per capita for the next three years; $2 per capita for the next three years, and $1 per capita for the last three years. A board of trustees, consisting of two United States senators and two members of the house, one from both political parties, the secretary of the interior, the fourth auditor of the treasury, and the commissioner of education, is to give the money, according to the bill, to the proper state authorities to distribute for common school education, without regard to color distinction. The bill was approved by the commission, which adjourned to meet in Washington at the call of the chair, when it will be again considered and presented to congress.

MR. CONKLING and Mr. Blaine are both grandfathers. At least Mr. Blaine is a grandfather. Mr. Conkling has not yet announced whether he proposes to be known as a grandfather or a grandmother. He will probably argue the case before the supreme court and then appeal from the decision.

WHILE the men and boys of America were drinking eight gallons apiece of beer and whisky last year they did not exhaust the stock of the manufacturers in this country. They exported over 5,000,000 gallons of spirits and supplied Europe with 235,000,000 pounds of tobacco. The tobacco went almost entirely to England, France and Germany, while the liquor found its way over almost the entire area of the civilized world. In spite of the fact that we used 75,000 000 gallons of our own whisky in the past year, there were imported 8,000,000 gallons of spirits of various sorts, which, by the way, is more than we exported in the year. It is proper to add that the internal revenue tax collected upon this whisky, beer and tobacco during the past fiscal year was $140,000,000, and that the internal revenue system, since its inception in 1863, has brought into the treasury a total sum of $3,087,376,425.05.

THE understanding is that Peachtree street is to have seven minute street cars. This will be a great improvement no doubt, but we are authorized to state that Whitehall street and West End will be satisfied with one car every fifteen minutes. A car every fifteen minutes on Whitehall street or at West End would be a great improvement.

THE new railroad standard time which will go into effect next Sunday has a great many influences in its favor. The railroads all over the country have agreed to take it. A committee from the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, consisting of Walcott Gibbs, Francis A. Walker and J. Rayer Edmands, has been thoroughly considering the proposed new time. The conclusion that they have arrived at is that for a variety of reasons it will be best to adopt the railroad time throughout the country. In conclusion the report says: "Such considerations lead us to the conclusion that any city, however large, which maintains its local time after the railroads have deserted it in favor of the new standard, will isolate itself from the time of the country, and bring constantly recurring annoyance upon its citizens, its visitors, and those who deal with it by telegraph." The railroad men seem to be ruling the time market.

EDITOR HALSTEAD, of Cincinnati, is alluding in hoarse tones to the "Danville massacre." In order to be true to his native section, the esteemed Halstead should brand it as a Holocaust. No votes can be made in the west by catering to the effete literary word-fanciers of the east.

THE rice question is still pending before the treasury department. It is in regard to the importation of granulated rice meal, which will this year amount to about twenty-five million pounds. This is a bout two and a half times the product of the domestic article. The question is whether this granulated rice shall be classified as cleaned rice, dutiable at 2¼ cents a pound, or as uncleaned rice, dutiable at 1½ cents a pound, or as rice meal, dutiable at 20 per cent ad valorem, or as an non-enumerated article, manufactured in whole, or in part, dutiable at 20 per cent ad valorem. The question is of importance to producers, importers and brewers.

EDITOR ROMEO REED, of the esteemed Cincinnati Commercial, writes copiously of the "impending conflict." Taking results in Ohio as the bacilic germ, so to speak, the conflict will culminate in another victory for the democrats, with no returning boards for Bill Chandler to monkey with.

EMILY FAITHFULL has struck at the shams of the day in a lecture which penetrates many of the frauds of modern society. She shows that the spending of wealth in society is not for the good it accomplishes but for the show it makes and says that in this, as in many other things, the American is only imitating his English brother. Last year in London the public gave a mere pittance to the free libraries, while it spent over $100,000 in dinner and wine bills for the lord mayor. It is said that the London board of aldermen pay every year more than $50,000 for free lunches to conduce to the advantage of themselves or their party.

IT is noticable that the street car mules on the Whitehall and West End line lean familiarly against each other as they endeavor to yank the cars along. As we remarked yesterday, these mules will never be gay again while the world stands.

A CANDY-MAKER has confessed in Chicago. He says some of his wicked partners put up fearful jobs on the public in the way of confections. More than thirty per cent of the candy that goes out of that sweet center of civilization, he says, is adulteration. The poor Mexicans are found the easiest prey to this vile stuff, and the worst forms of candy are sent to them. The rascals have even found a way to adulterate good old fashion stick candy, and nobody knows now whether he is eating sweet ened dirt or genuine sugar. The Mormons are reputed as the best judges of candy and the quickest detectives of fraud in its manufacture. Candy making is evidenty becoming one of the fine arts.

THE republican party declares that it will refuse to go next year. We call the attention of Editor Dana to this state of affairs. If the republican party will not go of its own accord, it must be kicked out.

A CANVASS of the members of the next Iowa legislature discloses the fact that constitutional prohibition will not be possible, and that even prohibition by statute is not absolutely assured. The republicans have only a clear majority of four in the lower house, and it is very doubtful indeed whether any prohibitory law can be put through that body. The senate will favor prohibition. There has been a marked change in public sentiment on this question, and if constitutional prohibition is ever reached, it will only come after several hard fought battles at the polls. As things stand Iowa can no longer be classed as a strictly prohibition state.

IT is a very hopeful sign to see the organs becoming frightened at a "solid south" and preparing to take out their dirty and bloody shirt arguments. We trust they will make the campaign warm from this standpoint.

GENERAL WRIGHT, chief of engineers, wants in the next fiscal year $36,730,485, for use on the rivers and harbors. And even this sum does no include the work under the direction of the Mississippi river commission. He proposes to expend $90,000 in Charleston harbor, $135,000 on the Savannah river, and $50,000 in Cumberland sound. The estimates for the Atlantic coast are for carrying on operations on 145 of the 151 improvements in progress. They provide for the completion within the coming fiscal year of 75 of them.

THE esteemed Mahone administration continues to feel around for a postmaster for Atlanta. It evidently proposes to break up the solid south by making long waits behind the scenes.

CANNED goods of all kinds are falling under suspicion. In many of the great canning houses of the country the work is pushed so rapidly that it cannot be done with any guarantee of safety. In London the physicians have reported several cases of sickness as directly resulant from this cause. Nitrate of tin is very apt to form if the can is opened and not used promptly.

Physicians, in some of the states, are actually advocating the compulsory use of glass instead of tin to avoid all such fatalities.

THE administration will wear crape on its sleeve for Mahone during the usual period of mourning Little Billy Chandler has rushed off to New Hampshire with a severe case of the gripes.

IT is mentioned as a very ominous fact that the export trade of France with Germany and other European nations, and even with America has steadily and swiftly declined. The staple trade of France consists in articles of luxury, and this trade has decreased, with England sixty per cent, with Germany twenty-seven per cent. Importations, on the other hand, have increased 574 per cent. Here is an opportunity for the political economists to sling up a few lines on that remarkable subject the balance of trade.

A NEW YORK preacher wants to put an end to Sunday night courting. We do not believe that the young people of either sex will allow their rights to be trampled on.

THE stock of pig iron at Pittsburg has been considerably reduced, and an improvement in price is looked for after the first of January. The recent concessions relate to low-grade iron, which will soon be out of the way. On the other hand, no great upward tendency is possible, because there are so many furnaces ready to begin production. All prices are down at the bottom. Steel rails in large lots can be had at $35 a ton.

"THE line," says an organ, "should be drawn somewhere." True, and the most convenient place we know of is around the neck of the republican party.

A WEST END correspondent writes: "Why is a Peachtree street nickel of more value to the Atlanta street railway than a Whitehall street or a West End nickel?" An editor is supposed to know a good many things, but this is one of the questions calculated to double him up. We candidly confess to our correspondent that we have reflected over his inquiry for months and mouths without being able to get at a solution.

DR. J. MARION SIMS, whose death is announced, was one of the most remarkable physicians of the country. To extraordinary scientific acquirements he added the impulses of a humanitarian, and his death is a loss, not only to medical science, in which he stood with the highest, but to the public. Dr. Sims was a native of Alabama.

MRS. HAYES'S husband still plays the sneak. He knew of no better way to insult the memory of General Steadman than by attending his funeral.

POLITICAL NOTES.

THE organ of Tammany Hall claims that in the recent election Tammany Hall cast 58,000 votes.

THE Philadelphia Press suggests that that city is the place of all others for the holding of the republican national convention.

GOVERNOR STONEMAN, of California, has a good chance for being the next United States senator from that state, if the legislature should be democratic.

NO SOIL produces political rumors like that of Ohio. The last is that Thurman is to be elected senator to succeed Pendleton, and then pushed for the presidential nomination.

GOVERNOR JACKSON, of West Virginia; Governor Hamilton, of Maryland, and Governor Crittendon, of Missouri, have already each issued a thanksgiving proclamation.

GEO. D. ROBINSON will be the third governor of Massachusetts directly descended from Dolia Davis, who came over in 1635. The other two were John Davis and John D. Long.

THE Mormon lobby, headed by ex-Delegate Cannon, have settled in Washington for the winter. They have plenty of money, and will spend it freely to prevent legislation hostile to the church.

THE World says that "it would have done the nobility of Europe good to have seen the blue blooded aristocrats of Beacon Hill, Boston, shaking hands with each other over the downfall of Butler."

DR. OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, introducing Matthew Arnold in Boston Wednesday night, represented himself as the little man in the story holding the jacket of the big man who was to do the fighting.

THE weak, arrogant and offensive Keifer seeks a complimentary renomination as speaker by the republicans who will form the minority in the next house, but will hardly get it. Hiscock, of New York, or Kasson, of Iowa, stand a much better chance.

NEW JERSEY is the state which will this year have a republican senate and a democratic assembly. There are 12 republicans and 9 democrats in one, and 26 republicans and 34 democrats in the other, making a democratic majority of 5 on joint ballot.

SENATOR JONES, of Nevada, has given up Governor Butler's gray house on Capitol hill, and with his family will spend the winter at one of the uptown hotels.

GENERAL SPINNER, formerly United States treasurer, visited his old bureau in the treasury department recently and received a memorable ovation. He is now eighty-five years old.

DURING the late Senator Randolph's term in the senate he gave all his salary to charitable and benevolent purposes. The money was disbursed principally by his wife and daughters, who had carte blanche from the senator to use it as they saw best for the benefit of others.

GENERAL W. S. HARNEY, the veteran Indian fighter, has taken quarters at a St. Louis hotel for the winter. He is eighty-three years old, was born in Tennessee, fought the Florida Indians, served in the Mexican war and was relieved from duty in the federal army by General Lyon.

BRILLIANT SUNSETS.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—You have called attention to the unusual beauty of the sunsets during the last two or three weeks, and suggested that it was due to displays of the "Southern Lights," the aurora Australis. In Sunday's issue you playfully refer them to atmospheric agencies. In seeking an explanation of this very striking phenomenon, let us group all the facts, and then, if possible, draw conclusions which will embrace them all. In the first place, early risers must have noticed that the brightness and beauty of the heavens were as marked in the morning before sunrise as they were in the evening after sunset. A full developed daylight preceded the rising of the sun much sooner than usual. The same rich, golden light gilded every object in advance of sunrise, which in the evenings, lingered long after sunset. This is the first leading fact. The second is that the illumination was confined to those portions of the heavens near to the path of the sun, somewhat south of west in the evening and somewhat south of east in the morning. The third fact is that in point of time these displays did not extend far from sunset or sunrise, immediately after the former and just before the latter; they occurred in both cases when the sun was just below the horizon. In other words, they covered the periods of twilight and dawn.

Now, it is to be remarked that auroral displays have none of these limitations. They are observed at all hours of the night, and more distinctly after all sunlight has disappeared. They doubtless exist during the day but are invisible for the same reason that the stars are not seen. Neither are they confined to those portions of the heavens in which the sun has its path, but are usually remote from it, viz: towards the north and south poles. It is not probable therefore, but very highly improbable, that the phenomenon in question is referable to auroral agencies. On the contrary, everything points to its intimate connection with the sun, and to the sun at particular points in its daily course, to wit, just below the western and eastern horizons. It cannot be from any luminous projections of the sun's photosphere because whilst these have been observed on a small scale during eclipses, they could not extend to such distances from the sun's surface and as high in the heavens as these illuminations have reached. Astronomers, in discussing the nature of the zodiacal light, (which appears under somewhat similar circumstances in the tropics after sunset in the spring, have demonstrated that no portion of the sun's atmosphere could extend beyond the orbit of Mercury. We are forced therefore to the conclusion that these bright displays owe their origin to some unusual circumstance connected with that portion of the sun's light which ordinarily produces twilight.

To bring the matter out more closely, let us glance at the origin of twilight. Light travels in straight lines—one cannot see an object around a corner. Light is sometimes bent a little from a straight line, as in passing through a lens, but this does not affect the general statement. When the sun passes below the horizon total darkness would occur at once so far as light from the sun is concerned but for its reflection from the atmosphere above. The atmosphere extends many miles from the earth probably not less than fifty, or more than eighty, and the sunlight therefore strikes its upper portions, long after it ceases to reach the surface underneath, just as the mountain top is illuminated with sunshine sometime after the plain below. Just at sunset the whole of the atmosphere above the horizon is reached by the rays of the sun and reflects them back to the earth; as the sun sinks lower, the eastern portion first, and then successively more and more of the atmosphere is cut off from the direct rays of the sun until finally no part is illuminated. The higher portions of the atmosphere, of course, receive the sun's rays last. It is probable that the particles of the air itself can reflect light to some extent; it is certain, however, that particles of solids floating in it, and watery vapor does possess this power. Everyone is familiar with the bright streak caused by particles of dust in a dark room when a ray of light is admitted through a hole. When the air is filled with dust or particles of any kind, its power of reflection is greatly increased thereby. So also the slightest condensation of watery vapor renders it visible. Witness the breath on a cool morning, and this is only another mode of saying that it acquires the power of reflecting and sending the sun's light to the eye. Now in point of fact our atmosphere is rarely or never free from particles floating in it, and never without vapor of water, and it is unquestionable that most of the light of twilight and of the dawn, comes from reflections of the sun's light from one or both of these. The reflection from the higher regions of the atmosphere is due more largely perhaps to partially condensed vapor than to particle of dust, the latter abounding more in its lower portions.

After this rather lengthly and tedious discussion of elementary principles, which was deemed necessary to explain the matter under review, we come back to it again with the conclusion that it is only a prolonged, intensified or exaggerated twilight—that there was during its continuance an unusual quantity of one or more substances in the atmosphere, especially in its upper portion, which increased its reflective power very largely, causing it to reflect and flood the earth with an extraordinary amount of light after sunset, and prolonging its brilliancy, because its higher regions, which caught the last rays of the setting sun, reflected the light so much more than usual. With the order reversed exactly the same things occurred before sunrise. What the reflecting substance was, we can only conjecture, but suppose it to have been some peculiar state or condition of watery vapor. This is rendered probable by the close connection of the colors of the sky at sunset and sunrise with the weather of next day, a red sunset betokening dry, and a red sunrise wet weather.

A Crushed Porter.

From the Oil City Blizzard.

We are happy. The porter of the parlor car has been crushed.

"Beg yo' pawdon, sah," he remarked with impressive grandeur to one of the occupants of the car. "Dat was a trade dollah yo' handed me a minute ago."

"Ah, was it?" replied the plebe as he took it from the outstretched hand and examined it. "Take this for your honesty, my friend," and pocketing the dollar the traveler handed the astounded potentate of the road a lead nickel.

The insensible body of the porter was left at the next station, and after physicians had worked at him two hours he recovered sufficiently to murmur incoherently:

"It wa'nt de money what pah'lize me boss; but he called me 'my frend!' Boss, dat take me down offul!"

A Sand-Bag Wanted.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mathew Arnold must elocute better than this, or we will relegate him to the drama:

"His voice was apparently strong enough, but having begun a sentence in a moderate tone, he diminuendoed to the end, getting to piano and pianissimo long before the last words, which were given in a whisper or an unintelligible grunt."

By Jove, this is too much. What does the English dude take this free people for, we should like to know? Here is a man who abused us during the war, and now comes over to insult our intelligence by "getting to piano and pianissimo" before winding up his sentence. And for this he charges $2 a seat and is coming this way. Here, boy, hand us the sandbag.

The Next President.

From the New York Tribune, rep.

Stretch these gently out in a row. They include all the democratic names for president: Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland, William Dorsheimer, Abram Hewitt, W. S. Hancock, Samuel J. Randall, Judge Pratt, of Brooklyn, Thomas F. Bayard, George Hoadly, H. B. Payne, George H. Pendleton, George B. McClellan, Henry C. Slocum, Wm. R. Morrison, Stephen J. Field, Joseph E. McDonald, Thomas A. Hendricks, Lyman Trumbull, Allan G. Thurman, George F. Stoneman. Pulverize this list and only three or four probabilities will remain in it, say Tilden, Hoadly and McDonald. The more examination put on Tilden the more he will fade out. To McDonald again, as a year ago, the needle begins to flicker, and the alternative or coterminous one may be Hoadly.

Why His Wages Were Reduced.

From the Wall Street News.

"I believe I'll have to reduce your wages, John," said a miserly Boston employer to one of his help the other day.

"What for?" was the query.

"Because things are coming down. The necessaries of life are cheaper, and you can afford to get along on smaller pay."

"I should like to know what necessaries of life are cheaper," said John. "Beef is as high as ever, flour hasn't dropped a cent, and coal is as dear as ever."

"Well," said the employer, as he turned away, "at any rate, the price of postage stamps has been reduced one-third."

The Cotton Convention.

VICKSBURG, Miss., November 13.—The citizens committee on the reception and entertainment of the National cotton planters' convention, has completed arrangements for accomodating 500 delegates. It was resolved to give a grand banquet during the meeting. Nearly every railroad in the cotton states has made reduced rates to the convention, as have the steamboats. The convention will be called to order on Wednesday at noon, November 21.

General Sherman's Future Business.

General Sherman will be in St. Louis this winter, ready to go behind the scenes and kiss all soubrette actresses who apply; but for advertising purposes his kisses will not be so valuable as they were when he was in Washington at the head of the army.

NEW YORK TOPICS.

THE DEATH OF DR. J. MARION SIMMS.

The Life of the World's Great st Surgeon—How His Fame Extend d to Europe—Presid nt Thomas's Southern Trip—The Oldest Horse in Am rica—A Burglar Laid Flat.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Dr. Marion Sims, whose reputation as a physician and surgeon is universal, died suddenly this morning at his nome, on Madison avenue, of heart disease. He attended yesterday to his usual professional duties, and but until a few moments before his death was apparently in his usual health. He was to have sailed on Saturday for Europe, intending to pass the winter in Rome. He was born in Lancaster district, South Carolina, on January 25, 1813. He graduated from the Carolina college, at Columbia, and studied medicine at Charleston and in Philadelphia, Pa. In 1836 he settled in Montgomery, and it was there that he began to build the reputation which has since extended through the civilized world. He moved to New York in 1853, and in 1864 located in Paris. While in Europe his remarkable skill in surgery exhibited in many of the hospitals, placed him at the head of the first surgeons of the world, and he became the recipient of several titles of honor, from European crowned heads. His name was recommended to the Belgian government for the order of Leopold the First, and was about to receive it when the American minister at Brussels, Mr. Sanford, objected, as Dr. Sims was a political sympathizer with the south. It was then withheld at the time, but was conferred on him during a visit a few years ago. In the Franco-Prussian war he organized an ambulance corps of eight Americans and as many English, and served with distinction as surgeon in charge. For many years since he has resided here. He has made annual professional visits to Paris and London, and at one time the Empress Eugenie was his patient. Since his removal here, after leaving Europe, he has been regarded as the head of American surgery, and his patients have come from every state in the union to be placed in his experienced hands. Many methods introduced by him have become generally adopted in the profession, and are recognized as being most important aids in the growth of the science of surgery, while his writings on that subject have become standard works. His wife was a Miss Eliza Theresa Jones, of his native place. She with four daughters and two sons survive him.

THE EAST TENNESSEE OFFICIALS.

President S. H. Thomas, of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, accompanied by a party of railroad men, left here to-day for New Orleans in a special car. They are on a tour of inspection of their system of roads, and will visit Atlanta during their trip. The annual election takes place on Thursday at Knoxville, and they go directly there.

THE FAT WOMAN'S HUSBAND.

The police and newspaper reporters of Baltimore have been kept busy this evening in watching the movements of David Moses, the husband of the fat girl who died there last week. Moses called twice at the office of Dr. Alexander Hill, who made the statement that he sold him the body of his wife the day of the burial. Moses denied doing so and said he would shoot Hill on sight. The doctor has been out of the city to day, but is expected home every hour. Moses has been drinking and may carry out his threat.

THE OLDEST HORSE IN AMERICA.

In a barn at the Staten Island alm house may be found a horse with a history. His age can be reliably fixed at forty-two years, and ex-County Treasurer James R. Robinson, now seventy three years old, thinks he can reliably trace him back for forty-five years. The animal is quite a curiosity, particularly to veterinarians, who are anxious to see how long the veteran will live, and thus settle the mooted question of equine longevity. Originally iron-gray in color, Old Turk's coat is now snow-white. He is toothless and has to be fed on "soft food." Mr. Robinson says he knew Old Turk 25 years ago, when he was a crack trotter, owned, he believed by Captain Jacob H. Vanderbilt, and known as Guy scouts. He was one of the wonders of the old New-Do p racecourse, and was purchased by Vanderbilt from Judge Clausen, who lived on the old Richmond road, near New-Dorp lane. A proposition made some years ago to sell Old Turk, and thus save expense to the county, created quite a sensation, and evoked lively newspaper comment. Nearly one whole day was devoted to a discussion of Old Turk's case by the board of supervisors, and his name also figures on the records of the superintendents of the poor, who talked once or twice of selling him. Thomas McCormick, keeper of the almshouse, says that when Major Barnett, superintendent of the poor, proposed to sell him, a number of citizens clubbed together and agreed to purchase him and pay for his keeping rather than allow him to be disposed of. He had done good service to the county, and it was finally decided to pension him. Since that time he has done no more work than was necessary to keep him in condition. In this life of indolence he will probably continue until his demise, of which there is no immediate symptom.

A BURGLAR LAID FLAT.

Early in the morning a burglar entered the house of Theodore B. Palmer, a civil engineer, Newark, N. J., by forcing one of the lower windows. He had hardly commenced operations in the place when he was shot and almost instantly killed. Mr. Palmer is at present in Europe and the house during his absence has been occupied by Mr. Choate, paying teller in the Seaboard bank, this city. Mr. Choate, after making everything secure about the place, retired at 11 o'clock, and was awakened by the breaking of a window. Dressing himself he took a revolver and descended to the parlor floor and in the back parlor saw the form of a man near one of the windows. He raised his revolver and fired, and the man, without uttering a word, turned and disappeared through the window. Mr. Choate started for the street to give the alarm. Outside the rear parlor window on a porch was stretched the body of a well dressed man. It is supposed that the burglar, although struck in a vital spot, had just strength enough to step to the window and fall on the porch, where he was found. The man was 5 feet 8 inches tall, had brown hair and mustache, and was dressed in a new suit of brown mixed clothes and blue flannel shirt. In one of his pockets was a 32 caubre Smith & Wesson revolver.

The burglar has been identified as George Stone, who resided at 25 Market street. One of the inmates of the house to-day identified the body as that of Stone.

FORGERS TOOLS FOUND.

The police to-day found in a room in Division street, which was used as a work shop by Brockway, the forger and counterfeiter arrested last week, a large trunk containing a full assortment of counterfeiter's tools and tracing paper, with the forged signatures of Leland Standford, C. P. Huntington, and Speyer Bros., London bankers.

The Woman Who Named Gabe Bouck.

From the Washington Post.

Bouck underwent a queer transformation when he came to Washington to serve in congress. He had never worn a white shirt or waistcoat before coming here. His shirt was black flannel, with a heavy gold chain twisted down its front. His coat was a blue frock, adorned with huge brass buttons. His face was heavy and swarthy. His nose turned up a decided pug, while his eyes were black and viciously crossed. Over a low forehead hung a mass of uncombed, coarse, black hair. This eccentric lawyer—a man of ability, a sworn bachelor and a howling hater of women—came to the Ebbitt house, and was seated at the table where sat Congressman McKinley and his wife. Her bright, sunny, lady-like ways subdued at once the man who had never mentioned for fifty years a woman's name without an oath. Gradually Bouck became transformed. He bought a white shirt and waistcoat. He had his hair cut and combed. Finally he added the crowning stroke by having his boots blacked. He was white here the chivalrous and devoted slave of the charming Mrs. McKinley, who used to be called by her lady friends "the bear tamer."

Notice to the Bosses.

From the Springfield Republican.

The meaning of it all is too plain to need elaboration. Nobody can fail to see in these campaigns a working out of the revolt against bossism which carried the Chicago convention and made republican success possible in 1880, and nobody need mistake the lesson for the future. If a presidential election came to-morrow it is not too much to say that, with a man on the ticket representing what Garfield did, republicans could carry New York and Pennsylvania. Bossism has lost both to the party, and as the bosses took back seats both have been recovered. They can easily be lost again.

WISDOM IN THE WELL.

There was an old man in Birtleby-town,
Who chose to live down in a well;
But why he lived there in Birtleby-town,
Was never a man could tell.

And the reason we never had known to this day,
Had not the old gentleman told;
He said he was cool when the weather was hot,
And warm when the weather was cold.

A bucket he had to draw himself up,
A bucket to let himself down;
So, perhaps, he was either the silliest man,
Or the wisest in Birtleby-town.

THE RAILROADS.

CROSS-TIE GOSSIP IN AND OUT OF ATLANTA RAILROAD CIRCLES.

A Big Combination—The Georgia—The Louisville and Nashville—A Railroad from Americus to Lumpkin Proposed—The Sandersville Narrow Gauge—Railroad Notes.

FOUR years ago the railway mileage in the twelve southern states was 17,000. It is now 26,000.

THE Pullman car company has 851 sleeping coaches in service, exclusive of the Southern Pullman car company.

RECENT statistics show that while Illinois has more miles of railroad within its limits than any other state, it has not so many separate roads as New York or Pennsylvania, or New Jersey, or Ohio. The number of Illinois roads is fifty eight. Missouri has thirty-eight, Kansas twenty-three and Texas twenty seven. Pennsylvania heads the list with a hundred and sixty-four.

DAHLONEGA SIGNAL: We are glad to learn, as we do from a private letter from Judge C. H. Sutton, one of the attorneys for the Northeastern railroad company, that the recent troubles of the company have all been settled in a manner satisfactory to the road, and that the prospects now for the speedy extension of the road to Rabun Gap are bright.

The Sandersville Narrow Gauge.

Special to The Constitution.

AUGUSTA, Ga., November 13.—Subscriptions to the stock in the Augusta and Sandersville narrow gauge railroad are increasing rapidly.

The Georgia Railroad.

Special to The Constitution.

AUGUSTA, November 13.—The regular meeting of the board of directors of the Georgia railroad was held to-day. A committee of three was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions in regard to the death of L. M Hill. John H. James moved that the board proceed to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Hill's death, but a substitute to defer until the annual meeting of the stockholders prevailed. It was decided to pay the regular quarterly dividends two and a half per cent.

The Sylvania Branch.

From the Sylvania Telephone.

The commencement of work on the contemplated railroad from this place to Rocky Ford on the Central railroad is necessarily delayed until arrangements can be entered into by which the iron can be obtained. It is almost a certainty, that operations will be begun sometime in November. Delay does not mean failure by any means, and there is no such thing as failing when an enterprise of this character is in the hands of such men as those who are interesting themselves in the matter. We confidently look to the completion and equipment of this road ere another summer is upon us, and expectto see the next year's crop of this section find its way to market over this line.

The Louisville and Nashville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., November 10.—A startling rumor gained currency in railroad and commercial circles to-day to the effect that Colonel D. W. C. Rowland, of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, had resigned; but when the reporter sailed out for its confirmation that gentleman was found busily engaged, with other officials, on a new time card, and when asked about it said: "Oh, that is only one of those periodical rumors that spring up mysteriously. I have no such idea, as you can see. Why, you don't suppose a man who has been with a company as long as I have with the Eilen N would resign, do you?" and he turned away pleasantly, notwithstanding the unintentional interruption to the careful work he was on. Colonel Rowland has no idea of resigning, and appears perfectly at home at the head of the company's running affairs.

A Railroad to Lumpkin.

From the Lumpkin Independent.

The newly proposed railroad from Americus to Lumpkin and Florence meets with much favor in the eyes of our citizens. A narrow gauge road can be built at a cost not exceeding $8,000 a mile, while some engineers place the figures as low as $4,100 per mile. Mr Glessner, of the Americus Recorder, has talked with the engineer who is now building the Jug Tavern railroad in north Georgia, who puts the figures down in the neighborhood of $4,500 per mile. Americus will contribute more for a railroad to Lumpkin than it proposed to invest in the Buena Vista road, which amount we believe was over $35,000. If the people of Stewart county will go into the matter earnestly, it will be an easy matter to get the road. By extending the road from Americus to Vienna, in Dooly county, we could tap Colonel A. J. Lane's narrow gauge road from Macon to Live Oak, Florida, which would give us direct communication with Macon and open up a market for the heavy cotton crop of Stewart county, which is now dependent upon an almost unnavigable river for transportation.

New Railroad Schedules.

From the Birmingham Age.

The new A. G. S. schedule, providing for two through trains from Cincinnati to New Orleans will be published in a few days, to go into effect, it is given out, on the 18th. The through trains will have fast runs with few stops, as the time from Chattanooga to Meridian will be shortened about three hours This will make the time nearly ten hours and the running rate, including stops, about thirty miles an hour, as the distance between the points named is 295 miles. Major C. B. Wallace, general superintendent, informed an Age reporter recently that in all probability the Birmingham and Chattanooga accommodation will not be taken off.

No schedule has as yet been fixed for the opening of the Georgia Pacific road on or about the 17th. The officers are waiting to see what connections can be arranged with the A. G. S according to the new schedule. It is probable that the north bound A. G. S. and east bound Georgia Pacific trains will make direct connections and vice versa, though the Georgia Pacific management may arrange differently in order made convenient connections at Anniston.

The Chattahoochee War.

From the Savannah Times.

The recent alliance of the Central railroad of Georgia and the Western and Atlanta road are expected to bear marked fruit. It is understood, though not officially confirmed, that the Central will shortly refuse to recognize the through rates via the Louisville and Nashville, but will form rates of its own via the Western and Atlantic and the Cincinnati Southern. It is apparent that such a move has become necessary, and that it will be shortly made goes without saying.

Elsewhere we print an interesting article from the Columbus Enquirer Sun in reference to the fight about to be made for the control of the trade of the Chattahoochee section. The Savannah, Florida and Western has issued a circular announcing new through rates to New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia from important landings on the Chattahoochee The effect of this move will soon be perceived. The Louisville and Nashville having built the Pensacola and Atlantic will, of course, move vigorously in the premises. Columbus may suffer some temporary detriment, but our home roads owe it to the interests of their stockholders and those of their main terminal, Savannah, to check as far as possible the diversion of traffic by rival roads. Railroad matters may be expected to present some lively phase in the near future.

Baltimore's Scheme.

From the Baltimore Sun.

Messrs. J. Frank Supplee, Wm. T. Dixon, Frank P. Clark and John B. Bland, a committee of the Baltimore merchants and manufacturers' association on Saturday had a conference in New York with some of the officers of the Richmond and Danville railroad company, with the view of securing better southern railroad connections for this city. The committee were informed that the railroad company will be glad to help forward the business of Baltimore all in their power. The conference was held to have an interchange of views upon the questions involved, and a proposition for the committee to return to Baltimore for further consideration with the association was agreed upon. The mercantile interests which are represented in the Merchants and Manufacturers' association favor the establishment of relations with the Danville railroad, which will identify it with the trade of Baltimore and may make this one of the terminals of the system. This, as understood, does not contemplate the construction of a third line between Baltimore and Alexandria, but the formation of an alliance which will have in view the objects sought. By such an arrangement if the contracting parties could be brought together, Danville trains would perhaps come to Baltimore and go to Philadelphia and New York, as Baltimore and Ohio trains now run over the Pennsylvania railroad from here to New York. As matters now stand, no regular trains of a southern railway come to Baltimore. All have their terminals elsewhere, and passengers for this city are brought over the Baltimore and Ohio, Baltimore and Potomac and Western and Maryland roads on trains of those companies The Danville system, by an alliance with the Baltimore and Ohio, for instance, could come to Baltimore direct, and a bridge over the Potomac at Sheppard's Would make the connection complete. When the New York exteasion is completed the Southern company could go to Philadelphia and New York also. The question is one of great importance to Baltimore, and suggests the advantages at least which this city may expect to realize from the establishment of competing lines to New York.

The Railroad War at Columbus.

From the Columbus Enquirer.

There was very little developed yesterday with reference to the pending railroad war on rates between the Central and the Louisville and Nashville railroads. Of one thing the people may be assured, that there is a great deal to come, of which the public are entirely ignorant, and we know whereof we speak. It will be developed before a week that the Louisville and Nashville has dived into the Central territory at a point they least expected, and will take out cotton of which the Central though to be entirely secure. This will throw fuel to the flames, as the Central will allow no such business as that, and we may then expect lively times and low rates. This will not benefit the business of any section as the tendency will be to demoralize and unsettle trade. The Louisville and Nashville have offered rates to certain parties on the line of the Central railroad that is astonishing, and the Central cannot make a local tariff high enough to prevent its being carried. In the course of a few days, unless all signs fail, this will be developed, and we much prefer to deal with facts than to make surmises. No one who understands the situation, however, will believe that all this is being done on account of what business is being done on the river. There is, in this instance, a power behind the throne which is stronger than the throne itself. It need cause no very great surprise if the East Tennessee and Virginia takes a part in the play before the curtain is rung down. All sorts of rumors and reports are flying around loose, and some of them may prove to be facts. Of one thing our readers may be assured, that there is to be a great change in railroad rates and systems and that at an early day.

We have not believed, nor do we now believe, that Columbus stands in any danger from the cut in rates. It is to the interest of the Central to bring what business it can to Columbus The officials of the road here are all among the best citizens that we have, and all their interest are thoroughly identified with the interest of the city, but the Central road only works to the interest of Columbus when it is to the interest of the Central to do so. The citizens of the city are interested in the road just as the road is interested in the city—as a matter of business. Little does it matter with the business men, so they get the business.

That the Central railroad is anxious to have the business of the river come to Columbus is shown from the act that it pays a heavy tariff on the cotton which comes from that section. We understand that the Savannah, Florida and Western is paid $1.50 per bale in order to keep hands off and allow the cotton to come in this direction. Captain W. D. Chipley, of the Pensacola and Atlantic, made a demand upon them to know what his road was to get, and being denied anything more than what business he could control, made such terms with the Amos Rays that would carry cotton and merchandise to the Pensacola and Atlantic It was first said that the Central would fight this move by putting road wagons between Marianna, Greenwood and the river and hauling the cotton for a mere nominal rate, giving through rates in connection with their steamers. If this idea was entertained it has been abandoned, and the Central has adopted an entirely different plan. Our information is such that we think it will lead to unraveling the situation very soon.

A Big Combination.

From the Cincinnati News Journal.

It is semi-officially announced that the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific, and the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis companies have agreed upon a basis for the interchange of traffic at Cincinnati and Louisville which will amount to little less than actual consolidation of the lines. Negotiations to this end have been pending for some weeks between the companies, and, although they were carried on in secret, the object of the several conferences between the high contracting parties has not been wholly unknown to other railway officials, and it may be said that counter movements have been made by the competitors of the combination which may rise up and become stumbling blocks in the path of Presidents Roberts and Scott. The agreement between the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis, and Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific, it is said, contemplates nothing short of the closest kind of an alliance between the lines, and a policy that shall preclude the possibility of any misunderstanding on the part of rival lines as to what the combination was made for. Of course, a draft of the agreement is not obtainable by outsiders, especially by newspaper reporters, but enough of its provisions are known to give some idea of what the combination expect to accomplish. In the first place the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific will undertake to deliver all of the north and northeast bound freight business to the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis, at Cincinnati and to the J. M. & I. at Louisville The Pennsylvania folks agree to deliver all of their freight tonnage destined to points south of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi river to the C. N. O. & T. P. either at Louisville or Cincinnati. Tonnage originating at Cincago and in the country tributary to the C St. L. & P. is to be delivered to the Southern at this point. The passenger car service agreement of the combination contemplates the running of through sleepers between New York and New Orleans via Cincinnati. Between the Little Miama passenger station and the West End the connection track will be used, and cars arriving in the daytime will be hauled across the city with horses, and those arriving in the night time with a locomotive. Offerings of tonnage and passengers by other lines will be accepted and promptly forwarded, but such offering will not be accepted as at all binding on the combination to reciprocate. Where shippers desgnate the lines over which their goods shall be moved their orders will be obeyed by the combination, but the chances are that the innumerable delays to which such shipments would be subjected will speedily put an end to that kind of interference on the part of shippers and leave the whole matter in the hands of the contracting freight agent of the combination. The object of the agreement referred to is to place the Pennsylvania and the C., N. O. & T. P. in a position where they can demand everything for themselves and grant nothing to their competitors. It is a well laid scheme, and would work nicely, no doubt, were it not for the fact that the L. and N. in the south and the C., C., C. and I. in the north, the latter backed by all the Vanderbilt lines, are fully able to take care of their own interests, even though a half a score of such combinations as the P., C. and St. L. and C., N. O. and T. P. should spring up. It is possible that the parties to the combination have been so absorbed in their own affairs that they have forgotten that the Bee Line can combine with the O. and M. and the two with L. and N., and that the old Milan route for passengers can be reopened at any time on one day's notice; also that the C., L., St. L. and C. is not obliged to give its south and southeast bound business to the Cincinnati Southern, and further, that Mr. Huntington, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio, and Mr. Cunningham, president of the Kentucky Central, have intimated to the Louisville and Nashville folks that the Kentucky Central track from the short Line crossing, and the new bridge which will be erected next year at the foot of Central avenue, would make a very convenient route for the Louisville and Nashville into the Grand Central passenger station, and an easy way to connect with the Bee Line and all other roads in the West End. It might be well enough for the combination to reconnoiter the position of the allied forces of the enemy before bringing on a fight. It might save somebody from catching a sound thrashing.

The Musical Festival beginning next Thursday will be the great musical event of the year. A great many pleasant parties have been formed in other cities to visit Atlanta during it. Secure your seats at once. If you live out of town telegraph and have them secured.

SHE DECLINED AN M. P.

Why the Betrothal of Miss Williams and Sir Henry Herbert Was Declared Off.

BALTIMORE, November 13.—Some rich developments were made to-day in connection with the postponement of the marriage of Miss Rebecca Williams, the Baltimore heiress, and Sir Henry Herbert, M. P. The real cause of the trouble is said to be as follows: Sir Herbert has been seeking a rich wife. For several years past he has been playing the devoted to two ladies, one residing in New York and the other in St. Louis. At Newport, last summer, he met Miss Williams, and all other ladies were neglected for her.

Miss Williams was attracted by Sir Herbert's title, and frequently boasted of her becoming at an early day Lady Herbert, of Mackross. She was under the impression that he was wealthy, and when he proposed for heart and hand he was accepted. The date of the wedding was set for an early day in September, but was postponed owing to the inability of Sir Herbert to satisfy the bride-elect's father of the legality of his divorce from a former wife. Sir Herbert agreed to obtain the proofs at once, and did so, but another obstacle was then found in the way. It was discovered that, although Sir Herbert was the owner of Mackross abbey, the estate was heavily mortgaged, and in truth he was a poor man. When this became known to the bride's father he insisted that his daughter before marrying, should make a deed of trust to him of her large estate. To this Sir Herbert objected, and, it is alleged, a stormy scene occurred at the Williams mansion a few evenings ago. At the close of the interview Sir Herbert took final leave of Miss Williams and drove to the depot, took the train for New York and sailed for Europe yesterday.

The statement that Miss Williams was injured while horseback riding is denied, and is said to be only a ruse of her parent to suppress the scandal. The bride-elect's brother, who married a year ago against his father's wish, now charges the latter with obtaining by undue influence his signature to a deed of trust whereby he relinquished all his right to an estate worth $300,000, in consideration of a yearly stipend of $2,500. A suit to set aside the last named deed of trust is now on trial here.

FLAWS IN THE IRON.

The Cause of the Collapse of the Capitol Building of Wisconsin.

CHICAGO, ILL., November 13.—The Journal's Madison, Wisconsin, special dispatch says: A committee of expert builders and architects was appointed to consider the causes for the collapse of the new capitol building. They have found nothing defective in the plans, but find serious latent defects in the iron work which sustained the roof of the south extension of the building. Some of the supporting columns revealed internal flaws, which rendered them worthless. The report will tend to exculpate the architects and builders. The flaws in the iron were not visible, and were only revealed when the columns were broken.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Mr. Levy's Arrival To-Day—The Coming of the Orchestra.

It is useless to deny that the coming musical festival is the great topic in the city. The enthusiasm that was with the musical people at first has now become general, and all classes are interested.

A dispatch received from Mr. Levy, the greatest cornetist the world ever saw, announces that he left Cincinnati last night, and will reach Atlanta to-day. A committee will meet him on his arrival and see to his entertainment during his stay. This is Mr. Levy's first trip to the south in twelve years, as he has been steadily engaged in the great cities of the east and west. It goes without saying that no man ever lived who is comparable with Levy on the cornet, and in his hands that instrument becomes a miracle of melody.

At the rehearsal of the chorus last night Professor Barili had over two hundred voices, and the singing was a marvel of delicate shading and power A few ladies and gentlemen were admitted to the rehearsal and the singing was a revelation. Several of the singers from other cities were present. Another general rehearsal is called for to-night and another at four o'clock to-morrow, when the choirs will rehearse with the orchestra and with the delegations from other cities. A number of the chorus last night sent up their names and asked for the privilege of entertaining visiting choristers from other cities.

A telegram from Mr. Carl Sentz announces that the orchestra left last night, thirty-two strong, in a special car. They come by the Shenandoah Valley route and the Kennesaw, and Mr. Wrenn sent a special agent to see after their comfort and attend to their wants while en route. They will reach Atlanta Thursday at 1 o'clock.

Miss Fritch and Miss Pierce are both en route, and will reach Atlanta to morrow. Most of the chorus delegations from other cities will arrive to-morrow. It is especially requested that they be here in time for the 4 o'clock (Thursday) rehearsal with the orchestra.

In the meantime the rush for tickets is something remarkable. On yesterday there was a steady demand the day through, the demand being divided over the five performances. The sales yesterday equalled the sales of any three previous days, and to-day will be even larger. It will be well for those who wish good seats to secure them at once.

Half rates during the festival season will be given over the following roads: Air-Line railroad, West Point railroad, East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, Western and Atlantic, Georgia Pecific. Tickets will go on sale to day.

BUSINESS WRECKS.

The Failure of Three Prominent Business Houses in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, November 13.—J. E. Shepherd & Co., dealers in specialties for canvassing agents, assigned to R. S. Fulton to-day Liabilities estimated at $25,000. Assets undetermined, but small.

Samuel T. Tahl, wholesale dealer in notions, assigned to Jacob Schroede to day. Liabilities $27,000; assets $ 0,000.

T. T. Brown & Co., leather dealers of Main street, assigned to Stephen Coles to-day. Liabilities estimated from $120,000 to $150,000. A large amount of paper which will mature to-morrow is the immediate cause of the failure.

CHICAGO, November 13.—H. C. Tillinghast, dealer in furs, pelts and leather, assigned to the Hide and Leather bank this morning. The liabilities are stated at $300,000; assets $40,000. The firm has been engaged in business quite extensively. The immediate cause of the failure ascribed is that the firm advanced a large sum of money to its agent in Montana for the purchase of furs, who has thus far failed to make returns.

The Storm in the Chesapeake.

BALTIMORE, November 13.—The storm of yesterday morning on the Chesapeake bay scattered the oyster fleets in every direction, and the amount of damage has not yet been ascertained. The sloop Annie Gertrude, belonging to Deans Island, was capsized off James point, and her captain, Preston Webster, and his crew of eight men drowned. The schooner Seaman's Bride, Captain John Geise, was capsized in the same locality, but all on board were saved by a passing vessel. The schooner G. A. Kerwin, Captain John S. Kerwin, was capsized, but all numbering eleven persons, were rescued, and an unknown schooner was capsized and sunk.

Secure your Musical Festival seats to-day.

Seeking Friendly Territory.

JOLIET, Ill., November 13.—The announcement is made here that all manufacturers of barbed wire in this city will shortly remove their factories to Missouri and other western points within the jurisdiction of Judge Treat, whose recent decision in St. Louis declaring the Washburn patents invalid protect all the manufacturers there from interference and the payment of royalty. This will result in throwing out between 500 and 1,000 men.

DIAMOND SPECTACLES.

The Diamond Spectacles and Eye-Glasses not only claim to be, but are the best that science has been able to produce.

The Lenses, as well as the Frames, are made by thoroughly Skilled Artisans, and every pair is ground on perfectly scientific principles. They are perfectly colorless, do not polarize light, have no prismatic colors or scattered rays, common to pebbles and other lenses to use.

The core or centre of the lenses come in directly in front of the eye and never tires the eye but prevents the heated rays from entering; thereby producing a clear and distinct Vision, as in the natural healthy sight.

Their durability is pre-eminent, and while they preserve the sight, their lasting qualities are such, that frequent changing is unnecessary.

The eye is the most delicate organ of the human system, yet it is the most recklessly and carelessly used.

The Diamond Spectacles have stood the test for nearly ten years, and over 1,000,000 of them are now in use.

Mr. Chas. Rogers, formerly in U. S. Patent Office, Chemical Department, says: by actual test with the polariscope, the Diamond lenses have been found to admit 20 per cent less heated rays than any pebble.

Prof. Harvy L. Byrd, M.D., Washington University, says that the Diamond Spectacles afford more comfort to the eye and greater clearness and uniformity of vision than any spectacle he ever used.

They are mounted in all styles of Gold, Silver, Steel, Rubber, Celluloid and Nickel of the best quality.

CAUTION!

NONE GENUINE UNLESS STAMPED WITH TRADE MARK ◇ ON EVERY PAIR.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Stock was weak in the early trading. The decline in prices was fractional. Union and Central Pacifics were exceptionally weak. In the afternoon, under purchases for account of a pool in Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the market moved up rapidly. This stock rose 2 per cent, Northwest 1⅝, Northwest preferred 2¼, Canada Southern ⅞, Canadian Pacific 1⅛, St. Paul ⅞, Lake Shore ⅞, Michigan Central 1⅛, Missouri Pacific ¾, New York Central ⅞, Erie ⅜, St. Paul and Omaha preferred 1, Union Pacific ⅞, Wabash preferred 1¼, Western Union ⅞. Near the close speculation weakened under realizations, and on reports of a failure in the wool and hide trade at Chicago, and prices reacted ¼ to ⅝ per cent from the highest point. The sharp rise and great activity in Lackawanna is attributed in some quarters to the efforts of the Vanderbilt party to secure control, although nothing definite is known in the matter. Louisville and Nashville was noticeably stronger, on the large increase in the earnings of the road for the first week in the current month. Compared with last night's close, the active shares are ½ to 1¾ per cent higher, except Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, Northwest preferred, Omaha, Texas Pacific, Union Pacific, which are ⅛ to 1¼ per cent lower. Sales 396,000 shares.

THE GREAT CROUP REMEDY
CHENEY'S EXPECTORANT.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

From C. D. McCURRY. Newton county, Ga.—I take great pleasure in recommending to the public Dr. Cheney's Expectorant and Croup Preventive. My little son had been a great sufferer from Spasmodic Croup, during the night. Dr. Cheney about two ago, prescribed for him his Croup Preventive; which has most miraculously cured him. I find it equally beneficial in all cases of Coughs. I consider it a blessing in any family. Every one should keep it in their houses.

From ROYKIN R. SMITH, Jasper county, Ga.—I wish to say to you and the public, that I have been using your Expectorant and Croup Syrup for a number of years, and can truly say that it is the best preparation for Coughs that I ever saw or tested. I had the Epizootic the past winter, and I took four doses of your Expectorant and that much cured me, I cannot get along well without it; is needed as an indispensible in my family. No one should be without an agent so potent.

ONE OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS.

I have been using Swift's Specific in my practice for quite a long time, and I regard it the best combination as a blood purifier and tonic. It is entirely vegetable, being composed of the extracts of roots which grow in this section of Georgia. I am familiar with its history from the time the formula was obtained from the Indians. It is a certain and safe remedy for all kinds of blood poison and skin humor, and in the hundreds of cases in which I have used it and seen it used, there has never been a failure to cure. I have cured blood taint in with it, after I had most signally failed by the most approved methods of treatment with mercury and iodide of potassium. These cases have been cured over fifteen years ago, and have never had any return of the disease in themselves or in their children.

THE THIRD GENERATION

FRED. A. TOOMER, M. D.
Perry, Houston county, Ga.

"It is the best selling remedy in my store, and all classes of people buy it. It has become a household remedy with many of our best citizens."
WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

"I sell Swift's Specific—often a gross in ten days at retail, and to all classes. Some of Atlanta's best people use it regularly as a tonic and alterative."

COMMISSIONERS' SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN ORDER FROM THE JUDGE of the superior court of the Flint judicial circuit appointing the undersigned as commissioners for the purpose of conducting the sale of the following described body of land in Newton county; will be sold before the courthouse door in the city of Covington, Newton county, Georgia, within the legal hours of sale, on the 1st Tuesday in December, 1883, the following body of land known as the Longwood Farm, in said county, being the place whereon Walter B. Perry, Sr., resided at the time of his death, lying about six miles east of Covington and which has been cut up, or laid off into six small farms, containing respectively the following number of acres: 506, 279, 185, 158, 173 and 54 acres. On the farm containing 506 acres there is situated a handsome residence with eight rooms and all necessary outbuildings, and upon each of the other lots, excepting one, there are good tenant houses and on all suitable building spots for residences. These lands lie respectively on the public roads leading from Covington to Madison, and from Covington to Newborn. Each farm contains ample wood land and are all well watered. No better or more favorable opportunity has ever been offered to the people of middle Georgia than this to secure good and comfortable homes in one of the best and most desirable neighborhoods in the state. A complete and correct platt of said lots of land may be seen by calling at the ordinary's office in said county. ## A GLIMPSE OF CURRENT EVENTS IN ATLANTA.

The Day's Doings in Public Offices—The Record of the Courts, the Railroads and the Hotels—Real Estate Operations—Gossip of All Kinds—Items of General Interest, Etc.

The musical festival is all the rage in Atlanta.

The musical festival audiences will be the largest and most brilliant ever seen in Atlanta,

The sale of tickets to the musical festival yesterday doubled the sales of any other day. The rush increases daily.

Mr. Levy, the great cornetist, will reach Atlanta to-day at 1 o'clock, and will play in the musical festival Thursday night.

Harrison Cole, the colored undertaker who was paralyzed day before yesterday, was in a dangerous condition yesterday evening.

Mlle. Letitia Fritch left St. Louis last night for Atlanta, and will be here Thursday morning to appear in the great musical festival that night.

The residence of Mr. George Holmes, on West Fair street, near Nelson, was entered by burglars night before last and a quantity of silver coin was stolen from a bureau drawer. A small silver watch was also stolen.

The inquest yesterday morning resulted in a verdict that Henry Harris came to his death by carelessly falling under a moving train on the Central railroad. Harris was decently interred yesterday.

The hotels report that rooms are being rapidly engaged for the musical festival. This is the best season of the year to visit Atlanta, and the half rates on the railroads are drawing the crowds. The city will be jammed.

Trinity church prayer meeting and closing social re union for the conference year. The religious and social services will be interspersed with good singing. All congregation cordially invited to be present at 7:15 this p. m.

The governor has issued a proclamation making Thursday, November 29th, thanksgiving day. That day will also be the national thanksgiving day, a proclamation to that effect having already been issued by the president.

The "quiet" corner around Ricker's saloon, near the old barracks, was the locality of a bad fight yesterday evening between Sam Johnson and Tom Freeman, two negro men. Johnson was badly used up by Freeman. He received one bad cut in his back.

Mr. Carl Sentz and the great orchestra, 32 strong, left Philadelphia last night in a special car, and will reach Atlanta on Thursday at 1 o'clock. A grand rehearsal with the chorus will be had at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and appear in the festival Thursday night.

Governor McDaniel has gone to Milledgeville to visit and inspect the state asylum for the insane at that place. The governor will make a tour of inspection of the public buildings of the state. He has directed Adjutant General Stephens to inspect the arms of the citizen soldiery.

The report of the city prison keepers for last month show that during that time five hundred and eight cases were made of which seventy were state cases; that fifty-one of the state cases were prosecuted and eleven were released; that three hundred and twenty-four of city cases were fined, eighty-eight were dismissed and twenty-six continued. During the month $2 033 25 was the amount of the fines; of this $1,053 30 was collected and $55.70 was remitted.

General Longstreet has received the following missive, which is an eloquent appeal for troops: "No the 5 18 83 To the U. S. marcial i want to know ef you can't send 2 of the U. S. soalgers to mak a settlement for som por niggers (?). Por niggers is seen a hard times in som partes of Walton co. Ga! ef you can send me a letter soon (?) ### THE CRIMINAL CATCHERS.

Matters of Interest Gathered at the Office of the Postoffice Inspector.

Inspector Crawford reports to the office of the chief postoffice inspector the arrest of R. J. Smith, postmaster at Gardie, a small town below Savannah. There were several charges against Smith, the most serious of which was that of acting as agent for the Louisiana state lottery and selling tickets for that concern. The law makes it a crime for a postmaster to sell lottery tickets, and Smith was arrested for that offense. He will be tried at Savannah.

Inspector Booth reports the arrest of T. H. Burns, assistant postmaster at Ogeechee. Burns is charged with stealing from the mails a registered letter containing three or four hundred dollars sent from Savannah and directed to Statesboro. It is believed that the letter was abstracted from the mails when it reached the Ogeechee postoffice, and that Burns forged a receipt for it. He also will be tried in Savannah.

Inspector Lanier will be back from his Texas and Florida trips in about ten days. Mr. Bradford is holding the fort alone in the office. Dr. Brown, the head of the division, is out of the city and will be back Friday or Saturday.

The postoffice inspectors of the land and country are considerably exercised over a recent order of the postmaster general by which their pay is greatly reduced. Heretofore the inspectors have received a salary and a per diem and their expenses while making trips. Hereafter they will be allowed only their stated salaries and their actual expenses while making investigations. This results in placing them on salaries ranging from twelve to sixteen hundred dollars per year while heretofore they have received from both sources about twenty-five hundred dollars yearly. It is said that a number of the best inspectors will resign.

THE NEW HOUSE.

Which the Chamber of Commerce Will Occupy—A Legal Organization Perfected.

Yesterday there was a meeting of the chamber of commerce in the basement of the court house. Quite a large number of the one hundred and twenty-five members were present, and those who were not there were represented by proxy. The object of the meeting was to perfect the legal organization of the institution under the charter obtained from Fulton superior court on the 5th of October. President B. E. Crane and Secretary H. M. Cottingham were in their places. Captain J. W. English, from the building committee, gave a report of the transactions of that committee. The plans accepted for the building were those submitted by Fay & Eichberg, providing for four stories, with central entrance, elevator and all the modern conveniences. The building is to be of the best quality of brick, trimmed with granite. It will ornament the corner of Pryor and Hunter streets just opposite the court house, and must be ranked among the handsomest buildings in the city. The only contract yet given by the building committee is that for excavating, which was awarded to Hiram O'Neal. He is now hard at work with his hands, and will soon have the site ready for the foundation of the new structure. All the legal forms necessary to the new organization were complied with. The old board and officers were re-elected and will continue in office until next July. The issue of $40,000 of bonds or so much thereof as may be necessary, was authorized on a resolution drawn by Mr. W. T. Newman, the attorney of the chamber. These bonds are to bear 7 per cent interest and will be issued for twenty years with the option of redemption in five years. They will be issued in blocks of $10,000. It is possible that not more than $30,000 will be necessary to carry out the plans of the chamber. Already there are subscriptions to $15,000 of the bonds and they are sure to go rapidly with the interest and security offered. The building of the new home for Atlanta's representative business establishment will go right ahead, and in a few months will be complete. The membership of the chamber represents all the commercial enterprises and professions of the city.

The Commercial club will be organized very soon and handsome quarters will be fitted up for it on the third floor of the new building.

It is thought that the first floor will be used for the city offices, while the chamber of commerce will use the second floor. The fourth floor will be fitted for a lodge or society room.

A SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

A Suit Against the Atlanta and West Point Railroad to Recover $10,000.

Fulton superior court, Judge Hammond presiding, was engaged yesterday in the trial of the case of Mrs. Jones against the Atlanta and West Point railroad company. On the 20th of last May Mrs. Jones was driving over a country road in Troup county. She was in a wagon which was drawn by a mule. When near a crossing the engineer caused the whistle to sound loud and shrill, and at the noise the mule became frightened and ran away. Mrs. James was thrown from the wagon and one of her legs was broken. By the accident she was caused to suffer a great deal of pain, and for that pain and the inconvenience she asks the court to award her ten thousand dollars. The testimony in the case was heard yesterday and the argument will be made to-day.

A revelation in music will be the great Musical Festival on Thursday night. Secure your seats at once.

THE SHORTER WILL CASE.

Its Progress in the Supreme Court—Another Day Necessary to Its Completion.

The Shorter will case continues to hold the attention of the supreme court, and will likely occupy it for a day longer at least. Yesterday when the court opened Judge Geo. Hillyer continued his argument for the defendants in error. He gave a thorough review of the entire case and applied the law to each point in dispute. He was followed by Mr. C. N. Featherstone, of Rome, on the same side, who made an able argument, and presented the case in some new phases. He had not concluded when the court adjourned, and will finish his speech this morning. After he concludes Governor Smith will speak for the plaintiffs in error, and one of his best efforts is expected.

The case may occupy the attention of the court all the day. It involves over a half million of money, and its double appearance in the courts below has but intensified the public curiosity to know it will be finally decided. It is probable that the decision of the supreme court will be rendered next Tuesday.

THE PICTURES.

The Art Loan Still in Progress—What the Library Has to Show.

Atlanta can furnish no more interesting or improving entertainment than is to be found at the Young Men's library between 10 and 4 o'clock every day. The Art Loan is still in progress in all of its essential features. The paintings can really be enjoyed more now than was possible amid the crowds and confusion of last week. There are three hundred of them and the highest compliments to their quality have come from those who are capable of appreciating true art. They will stand the most intelligent discriminating scrutiny. Besides the pictures there is a display of bric-a-brac and art curiosities in the studio of Mrs. Bacon and Mr. Horace Bradley, which is worthy a close and careful study. Mrs. Bacon spent several years in Europe pursuing her art studies, and there she collected these interesting relics. Some of her own work is to be seen too and is worthy of the admiration so generally bestowed upon it. The crazy quilts are still on exhibition.

The library offers an attractive feast to all who love art and are fond of seeing its newest developments.

THE NEW CAPITOL.

A Circular by the Commission Extending the Time For Passing Upon Plans.

It is probable that the capitol commissioners will not have much to do when they meet on the 19th of December. Owing to numerous requests from architects for an extension of time in which to prepare plans, the governor has issued a circular in which he says:

"After consultation with the members of the capitol commission, and in response to repeated requests from architects, the time within which to prepare and present designs for the new capitol building, will be extended until Wednesday, January 16th, 1884. After the hour of noon on that day no plan can be entered for the competition.

By direction of the commission.

HENRY D. McDANIEL,
Governor and ex-officio chairman commission."

The members of the commission were unanimous in the opinion that the architects should have ample time in which to prepare the plans, and all agreed that the time should be extended to some day after the 1st of January. The commission will hold a meeting on the 19th of December, at which, however, it is supposed but little work can be done.

THE KU-KLUX CASE.

Jasper Yarbrough Satisfied That He Has Had a Fair and Impartial Trial.

It is expected that the motion for new trial in the Banks county ku-klux case will be argued on Monday next, but it is said that Jasper Yarbrough, the ring leader of the gang, has given up all hope of a new trial. He stated a day or two ago that he had had a fair trial and considered it best to throw himself on the clemency of the court, or, as he expressed it, to "send in his resignation for a shor sentence." He is, however, in the hands of his counsel along with the other members of his party, and if a new trial is granted he will not be likely to object. It is believed by some who are in position to know the facts that if a new trial is secured an acquittal of several of the party will be almost certain. The strongest point for the defense was hardly touched upon at the recent trial. While some of the party are known to have been the assailants of the negroes, it can be shown, if the defense is inclined to do so, it is said, that the cause of the assault was by no means of a political nature and consequently could not be punished by the federal courts.

A FEARFUL FIGHT

BETWEEN TWO BUTCHERS AND SIX NEGRO HIGHWAYMEN,

In Which Two Negroes are Laid Low and One Butcher is Supposed to be Killed—The Dramatic Story That is Told by the Surviving Brother—Murderers Pursued.

The city was thrown into an inteuse excitement early yesterday morning by rumors of a tripple homicide at Tight Squeeze, one of Atlanta's northern suburbs.

The deed was described as one of the most bloody and horrible that was ever enacted in the state, and as the details of the terrible affair were related upon the streets, those who heard them turned away unable to repress a shudder. The intelligence of the tragedy was first brought to the city and reported at police headquarters by one of the parties who was engaged in the desperate duel by which the three persons lost their lives. The man presented but little evidence of the bloody ordeal through which he had passed, but his story was told with such apparent honesty that it was impossible for the officers to disbelieve it, and an instant investigation was ordered and maintained until the actual details were obtained. Mounted Officers West and Moon were instructed to proceed at once to Tight Squeeze and take charge of the three dead bodies and remain with them until the coroner could reach the place. To the officers the informant described the locality of the fight so minutely that it was found without any difficulty. While the officers were discharging their duties the man remained at police headquarters, where he pleasantly answered all questions put to him, and where he repeatedly told his story, which was blood curdling in its details. He wanted for an audience at no time and his recital was listened to by many. He gave his name as Fritz and stated that he was engaged in the meat trade on Marietta street, near the old rolling mill. To a large number of the police force he was personally known and of him none but the kindest remarks were heard as coming from the police.

THE DETAILS OF THE BLOODY FIGHT.

Fritz's story was graphically told. He said that he and his brother were passing through a field near Tightsqueeze, when they were beset by six negroes. The negroes had followed the Messrs. Fritz from Marietta street, and despite their effort to evade their pursuers they were finally overtaken by them. The moon was shining brightly and the field was a large, open piece of ground. Every movement of the negroes could be plainly seen by the two white men. The Fritz brothers were unable to divine the negroes' motives in pursuing them, but when the negroes overtook them their reason was quickly made apparent. One of the darkies, who seemed to be the leader of the mob, stepped in front of the white men, and wheeling around so as to face them, said:

"Stand and give up your money."

As he delivered this speech the darkey presented a pistol, the long shining barrel of which was resting in an unpleasant and dangerous proximity to Mr. Fritz's nose. A glance on the part of the white men at the negroes developed the fact that they were entirely surrounded. Two of the negroes were in their front, two were behind them and two were on either side. Each one of the six was armed and their pistols were in full view, indicating stronger than language itself that they meant strictly business. The sight of the walking arsenal somewhat disconcerted the Fritz brothers and their reply being slow, the leader again said:

"Here, we don't want any fooling about this Give up your money."

This awoke the white men. They believed that they would be killed whether they gave up their money or not. They were both armed with large butcher knives, and of one accord agreed to sell their lives as dearly as possible. Actuated by one impulse both men drew their knives at the same instant, and leaping forward grappled with three negroes who were obstructing their pathway. The gleaming knife arose and descended, but as it came down the report of a half dozen pistols disturbed the midnight stillness. The knife blade and the pistol both did terrible work. The two darkies who were in front dropped lifeless to the ground with the warm blood flowing from mortal wounds, while one of the Fritz brothers went down with a pistol bullet in his brain. The other brother escaped the first fire, and raising his knife again he made at another one of the negroes who jumped aside allowing him to pass. The surviving Fritz then made tracks for the city, followed by about a dozen pistol bullets. He reached police headquarters about 3 o'clock and recited the above story. He could not tell just where he had cut the darkey, but was satisfied that he had disemboweled him while his brother's knife had reached the other highwayman's heart. He stated most positively that three bullets had gone into his brother's body. The story was enhanced by the vivid picture of the fight which Fritz drew. His manner was excited and to all appearances he considered that he wore a charmed life.

THE INVESTIGATION THAT FOLLOWED.

The rapidity with which the rumor went around the city, drew a large crowd at the city prison. Everybody became excited, and all wanted to get a glimpse at the battle. Several tendered their services and in a few minutes a half dozen citizens were astride good horses flying toward Tight Squeeze. There they divided a portion to go to the dead bodies and a portion to scour the woods for the negroes who had caused the great commotion. Those who went into the woods rode around fruitlessly for quite awhile and then they decided to repair to the place where the dead were, but when they arrived there they saw no corpse or no living persons. Realizing that the dead had been brought to the city they followed only to find that they had been April fooled in November.

While the search was being made for the dead, information of another character reached the city prison. One of the policemen, who was on duty in the fifth ward, telephoned the stationhouse, that the dead Fritz was at his meat shop on Marietta street. This led to the detailing of an officer to investigate the truth of the report. At the meat market the detailed officer found the dead Fritz alive and happy, cutting up porter house steaks. From him the patrolman ascertained that his brother was on a spree and that the monkeys had been chasing him for two or three days. He had not been at his home the night previous and the family was quite uneasy about him.

The rumor of the killings created the most intense excitement during the morning and until the facts were known.

KICKED BY A HORSE.

Mr. W. O. Jones Severely Kicked by a Horse Last Night at His Stable.

Mr. W. O. Jones, proprietor of Jones's livery stable, was badly kicked by a horse last night about eight o'clock.

Before leaving the stable at night Mr. Jones makes a practice of inspecting the stalls to see that everything is in trim order. Among the horses in the stable was a very fine black animal owned by Lieutenant Voorhis. As Mr. Jones passed the horse he reached out his hand and gave the horse a spank. Quick as a flash the horse prepared to kick and drew both hind legs far under his body. Mr. Jones, who is perhaps the finest horseman in the city, if not in the state, instantly realized his danger, and with rare presence of mind, threw himself against the horse just as both feet struck him squarely in the abdomen. He fell to the floor and was picked up by Mr. Ol. Hart. Mr. Jones was thought to be in a serious condition as he immediately began to vomit. Dr. Ridlew was sent for in great haste and responded promptly. In the meantime Mr. Jones was conveyed to his room over the stable. At first Dr. Ridley thought the kick might result seriously, but at ten o'clock he announced that he thought Mr. Jones would get along all right and soon be up. A number of the friends of Mr. Jones hearing of the accident, called to inquire concerning his condition, and to them he stated that he was doing very well. If he had been far enough away from the horse to have received the full force of the kick the result would have been very serious.

SCARED OFF.

A Witness Hides Out on Account of a Threatening Note Without a Signature.

The United States court is now exercised over the disappearance of a witness who is just now in demand. Will Howell, of East Point, is a witness on whose testimony a number of convictions have been secured. He was a witness against C. W. Wynne, and testified against him in a case in which he was cleared. There was another case against Wynne, however, and before it came on for trial Howell found the following in front of his house one morning:

October 13th, 1883.—Will Howell, I notify you in time, if you go on the stand swear against Charles Wynne, as you did before, you may abide by the consequences. We will kill you if you do. Now you know this in time and how to save him and you too, just swear that you bought whisky at the bar and paid for it at the bar and he brought it to you. Be sure you don't swear you bought it of him since he closed the bar."

The note was not signed. The charge against Wynne was that he sold whisky out in the woods, using a wagon as a barroom after his bar license expired. The witness is now wanted to testify, but he can't be found, and it is supposed that he has been scared off.

Duff Opera Company.

This large company, in fact the largest on the road, with quite a number of first-class artists, will visit Atlanta the 21st and 22d. They are giving satisfaction in the places visited by them. In speaking of the prima donna, Miss Emma Juch, a reliable exchange says: "Emma Juch, my dear boy, has a sweeter, more sympathetic and better cultivated voice than Kellogg ever possessed. In fervor and pleasing impetuosity she resembles Adelina Patti. She has a great advantage over most of her sister artists, being thoroughly conversant with three languages and singing in all of them—Italian, English and German—and possessing a repertoire of twenty one operas.

The Rajah.

The Madison Square Theater company will produce the above beautiful play at DeGive's opera house soon. It is a quiet, even, smooth play, which excites interest and furnishes laughter all through its four acts. The acting by the company is said to be superb, every part of it.

Miss Clara Louise Kellogg.

Since the above distinguished lyric artist has been booked for Atlanta, the question has been asked as to the composition of her concert company. It comprises Teresa Carreno, the famous pianist; Signor Ferranti, the well known buffo; Miss Alta Pease, contralto, and Mr. John F. Rhodes, tenor. It is regarded as an excellent concert company.

Prompt Payments.

The call for the first assessment on the Kimball house stock was mailed to subscribers at nine o'clock Monday night. The assessments are not due until November 24th. But at nine o'clock Tuesday morning Messrs. Hunnicutt & Bellingrath sent their check for two hundred dollars and asked: "Is this the first?" and were answered in the affirmative. Their names are the first on the subscription and paid the first money toward rebuilding. Soon after Messrs. Hunnicutt & Bellingrath had left their check several others came in, each hoping to be first. Quite a number of voluntary subscriptions were made Saturday, so gratified were people to see the work move.

S. Marion, at 282 Marietta street, has been using the city water works for five years, paying therefor $20, the first year $10 for bringing it into the sidewalk. Recently the city has widened the sidewalk, which throwed his water stock about 15 inches inside of the curbstone. In order to find out whose duty it was to have said stock removed, if considered an obstruction, he directed the morning watch of Saturday police to make a case against him. The case came up before the recorder Tuesday, 13th, and the result a fine of $1.75. Mr. Marion says it is the first case he has directed to be made against himself and thinks will be the last.

PROCLAMATION.

GEORGIA—By Henry D. McDaniel,
Governor of said State.

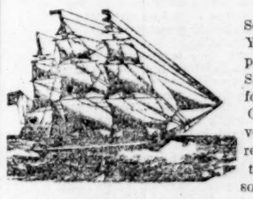

I DO HEREBY APPOINT THURSDAY, THE twenty-ninth day of November instant, to be observed as a day of Prayer and Thanksgiving to Almighty God for His many mercies to us as a people during the past year; and I earnestly recommend that all the people do, upon that day, abstain from their usual vocations and, assembling at their places of worship, by praise and thanksgiving, acknowledge the goodness of our Heavenly Father and invoke its continuance upon us in the future.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Executive Department at the capital, this the 13th day of November, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-three.

HENRY D. McDANIEL,
Governor.

By the Governor:

THE MULLEIN PLANT.

Dr. Quillan, a celebrared physician, of Dublin, has just written, in an English medical journal, of his wonderful experimental results with the common mullein plant upon lung and bronchial affections, citing cases where he had given it to consumptives with the most astonishing result, and recommends its use by the profession. Referring to the above, we would state that "Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein," made from the formula of the medicine men of the Cherokee Nation, is composed not only of the mullein plant, but has incorporated with it the sweet gum, the finest stimulating expectorant known, presenting an agreeable taste and a certain panacea for Coughs, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds and all Bronchial Affections. For sale by all leading druggists at 25c and $1.00 per bottle.
Manufactured by Walter A. Taylor, Atlanta, Ga., proprietor Taylor's Premium Cologne.

Rip Van Winkle.

Irving's idyl of the Catskills, "Rip Van Winkle," set to music by Planquette, the author of the "Chimes of Normandy," was produced at DeGive's operahouse last night by Ford's Comic Opera company. The version of the legend adapted for the opera is not the same as that of the drama, so successfully played by Jefferson, and in the treatment of it Planquette, perhaps, was more careful in the treatment of the theme than in attention to the music. The opera on the whole is decidedly interesting, with a quantity of pleasing music, some of it suggestive of the Chimes of Normandy. In the characters of "Gretchen Van Winkle" and "Meenie Van Winkle" Miss Alice May strengthened the good opinion formed of her last night. The applause she won was frequent, and she evidently gave much satisfaction—establishing herself as an intelligent lyric artist, and as one who does well everything she essays. Mr. Chapman as Rip Van Winkle sustained the character well and his make up in the last act was artistic and effective. His voice perhaps was not fully up to the requirements of the role. In Mr. Raymond, who personated Derrick in the first act and Hendrick Hudson in the second act, and in Mr. Bronson, who sang the role of "first lieutenant" in the second act, habitues of the opera house recognized and applauded old acquaintances. The singing of the choruses, and in fact of the whole score, was exceedingly good, while the costumery, etc., made the production of "Rip Van Winkle" additionally attractive. This afternoon at matinee Gilbert & Sullivan's opera, "Iolanthe," will be presented, and the engagement closes to-night with Bucculossi's "Girola; or the Miller's Bride."

Tickets to Atlanta Music Festival on sale at opera house box office all hours to-day.

The United States Court.

In the United States court yesterday the following cases were disposed of: Ephraim Johnson, receiving and concealing; not guilty. Jack Bennett, removing and concealing; plea of guilty and sentence of three months, $200 and costs. John Kelly, removing and concealing; plea guilty and remanded. Kim Crow, concealing and working; plea guilty, and sentence of one month, $100 and costs.

Sore Throats.

An epidemic of sore throats seems to have struck the city. Several prominent young men are in bed, among them Mr. Walter Venable and Mr. Ollie Fuller. The children are complaining greatly also.

A Law Card.

Attention is called to the law card of Mr. James W. Harris, of Toccoa. Mr. Harris is a young man of fine character, is prompt in business matters and has a rapidly increasing practice.

Not Quite Yet.

It is said that Colonel Marcellus E. Thornton has received a letter from Washington, which states positively that there will be no postmaster appointed for Atlanta before the meeting of congress.

Death of a Little Child.

The many friends of Dr William Perin Nicholson will regret to learn that his infant child died in Richmond day before yesterday. He was not quite three weeks old, and after a brief tossing on the waters of this life passed out into the infinite ocean of the unknown peace.

PERSONAL.

Mr. R. H. Knapp went down the Central road yesterday. He will return to day.

Mr. Steve Ryan returned yesterday from New York after a two weeks absence.

THE BEST AND MOST DURABLE PIANOS IN THE MARKET.
From GUSTAVE SATTER the renowned Pianist and Composer, Honorary Member Royal Academy of Sweden, New York Philharmonic, etc.
NEW YORK, December 8th, 1876.
MESSRS. KRANICK & BACH.
Gentlemen:—After having severely tested your instruments, and especially your Grand Pianos, I have come to the conclusion that I consider your pianos the only ones in America whose mechanism is adequate to the one introduced by the world-renowned house of Erard, in Paris, and which has been pronounced the "Ne Plus Ultra" of pliability and elegance by the first pianist in Europe during the last fifty years. I sincerely wish that you will continue the manufacture of your excellent instruments on the same principle as it is the only valuable one for true artists and concert performance.
Truly yours, GUSTAVE SATTER.

POSITIVE FACTS.
Never has there been such a rush to any house in Atlanta as Dohme & Duffy had last week. We sold over 40 barrels of flour in 5 days. The rush was so great we thought we would have to close our doors to keep the people out. This may seem strange to some people, but it is a positive fact. And why should it be otherwise? We have twelve men employed every day in the week, or, as we should have said, Dohme & Duffy support sixty people, who live and breathe the fresh air of one of the finest cities in this great country of ours. Our store is thirty by two hundred feet, filled with twenty five thousand dollars worth of the finest groceries that this and foreign countries can afford. We stop at nothing. We are continually adding to our stock, until now we have got the most complete stock of groceries that has ever been in any single store in America, Park & Tilford, of New York, not excepted. A few years ago Dohme & Duffy flung their banner to the breeze with everything against them, and nothing in their favor but a good name, and that we have guarded as a mother would her babe: and now the name of Dohme & Duffy is a by-word in every house in Atlanta. When we first opened our store we were like two babies who had not commenced to walk. Soon the people rallied to our assistance. We then commenced to walk and now we stand alone at the head of one of the largest retail grocery businesses in the United States of America.
We have just received a very large stock of the following goods: Seedless Raisins, London Layers, Currants, Prunes, all kinds of Nuts, London Layer Figs, Prunelles, Oranges, Grapes, Imported German Pickles, Qual on Toast, China Soy, Mushrooms, Prince Albert Sauce, Norfolk Oysters, seventy-five kinds of Cakes, Pumpernickel, Imported German Cakes, French Cheese, Pineapple Cheese, Eidam Cheese, Sapsago Cheese, Swiss Cheese, Parmison Cheese, grated, Sweet Sugar Corn, Walnut Tomato, Worcestershire and Mushroom Sauces, White Wax Cherries, California Pears, Quinces, Apricots, all kinds of Jams, Preserves, Jellies and Fruit Butters, fresh Guavas, Curry Powders, Celery Salts, Imported Kraut, Dutch Herrings, Kosha Sausage, old time Loaf Sugar, Terrine Defoisdres, Queen Olive, Saratoga Chips, Potluck Mackerel, Dried Raspberries, Pitted Cherries, Pitted Plums, Evaporated Pears, Dried Blackberries, Imported Boneless Sardines, Imported Chocolate, Imported Candy, Imported Olive Oil, Findon Haddis in cans, Maple Syrup, Sugar House Syrup, N. O. Syrup, English Island Syrup, Cuba Syrup, Buckwheat Oatmeal, Samp, A No. 1 Mackerel, the finest in the land, Roe Herrings, Mullet Roes, and anything you can call for in the grocery line. KIRK'S CAPER.

He Intimidates a Witness and Gets Into Serious Trouble in the Court.

James Kirk, and Atlanta citizen, was before the United States court yesterday charged with intimidating a witness.

In February last a case came up in the court against Kirk and a man named Harris. Joe Jacobs swore against Harris, on one day and Kirk's case was to be called the next. Kirk met Jacobs at the foot of the court house stairs and gave him a severe cursing, telling him that he had sworn a lie in the Harris case, and if he swore a lie against him he would kill him the first time he caught him out of Atlanta. At length Kirk became so angry that he struck at Jacobs, saying that he had the money to pay a fine and would lick him there. Jacobs had Kirk arrested.

At the trial yesterday he was represented by General Gartrell and prosecuted by Mr. Jenkins assistant district attorney. A verdict of guilty was returned, and Kirk was remanded to jail to await sentence. The penalty is three months and five hundred dollars fine. There are other warrants against Kirk which are yet to be tried.

OLD LAZARUS IN LIMBO.

The King of the Moonshiners Gets a Month and $100 Fine and Costs.

Yesterday when the United States court met, old man Lazarus Strickland, the gray rat of the moonshiners, stood up and entered a plea of guilty to the multiplicity of charges against him. Mr. Jenkins, the assistant district attorney, who was conducting the case asked the court to be as light as possible on account of the old man's great age and Judge McCay gave him a sentence of one month in jail and one hundred dollars fine and costs. Thus was passed the first sentence that the old man has received, although steadily violating the laws for ten years. When first arrested the old man was ready to resist, and it was not until three revolvers were shoved under his nose that he gave up. The guard into whose custody he passed after the sentence, was cautioned not to permit him to escape, and in order to prevent any possibility of a successful break the old man was handcuffed. After going down the street a short distance the guard looked at the old fellow's bent form and then at his own stout frame and relented. The procession halted and the guard unlocked the iron bracelets and took them off.

"That was a dirty trick, putting them things on me," said the old man.

The guard was highly insulted but carried the old fellow on to jail.

TOBE TURNER O HANG.

The Meriwether County Murderer Refused a New Trial by the Supreme Court.

As will be seen by the report of the decisions of the supreme court Tobe Turner, the Meriwether county murderer, has been refused a new trial and will be again sentenced to death. Turner is now in Fulton county jail for safekeeping, and for a number of days has been anxiously awaiting the decision of the supreme court. The case was argued about two weeks ago and has been carefully considered by the court. The exceptions to the ruling of the judge were disposed of one after another, and the judgment stood affirmed. The next thing for Turner now is to be taken back to Meriwether county and resentenced. The past conduct of Governor McDaniel shows that he will hardly interfere, and the chances are that Turner will be hung. It will be remembered that Turner murdered John E. Shuttles about two years ago.

Ellis Street is Mad—O! It Is.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—Some weeks ago the grade of Ellis street was taken, sidewalks dug down, sand hauled for paving, and the work now seems to be at a standstill. Rains will make the walking bad. When will the sidewalks be laid. There are several drains from private lots along the street, and the grading seems to have interfered with their outlet. The water which fell Sunday was obstructed and spread out on the yard. A speedy remedy for these troubles is called for. ONE WHO WALKS.

The Cotton Planters' Convention.

Round trip tickets will be sold, November 18 and 19, by the Western and Atlantic railroad company, at Atlanta, to delegates and visitors to Vicksburg and return at $14 35, good to return on or before December 1. Trains leave Atlanta at 11:400 midnight and reach Vicksburg second morning at 6. Only one change at Chattanooga. The convention meets on the 21st.

McCown's Baby.

Coroner Hilburn will to-day give the McCown matter a thorough sifting. The probabilities are that the dead baby will be exhumed. The rumors touching the baby's death yesterday were not at all complimentary to McCown.

A Burglar Arrested.

Steve Hamilton was arrested last night by Captain Crim. Hamilton is supposed to be a midnight burglar, and the arresting officer has almost enough evidence to confront him with the burglary of the New York clothing store a few weeks ago.

Stealing Clothing.

Vinnie Lane was given a cell last night by Patrolmen Stroud and Chambers. The prisoner is charged with the larceny of a handsome cloak and a dress. The clothing belonged to a Mrs. White on Nelson street.

A Bloody Wound.

In a difficulty on Line street, last night, a young man named Franks received a bloody wound on the head. The wound was inflicted by a man named Jones. Franks was not seriously hurt.
